FLOODS, SLIDES ON MAINLAND

Balmy Spring Days Will Continue Here

The weatherman today forecast "several days" of fine, spring-like weather for much of B.C.—and the frogs are croaking in Victoria, a sure sign of spring, according to Indian sages. (See Page 21).

But the warmup brought a continuing threat of slides and floods on the mainland. Two chief highways in the Interior were closed and a number of secondary roads blocked.

At Kamloops many basements were flooded to a depth of two feet Tuesday as temperatures soared to 54, second highest in the province.

Crews sandbagged parts of the Trans-Canada Highway at the east end of Kamloops to hold back the water.

The weatherman gave his most optimistic forecast of the winter for Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

"There are no storms to menace our fairly pleasant weather for the next several days," he declared.

He explained further: "High pressures have built up over the coast and much of B.C. and we seem to be established in a fairly stable pattern. Storm tracks go to the north and to the south of us."

Cold air has been pushed back beyond the Peace River and Edmonton, he added.

Rain trickling through heavy-sodden snow in the Kootenays loosed three slides which blocked the Nelson-Salmo highway Tuesday one mile south of Apex. A portion of the Balfour-Kaslo road was impassable due to slides.

City Star Wins In Canadian Shuttle Meet

Mel Chapman advanced into the second round as the Canadian Open badminton championships opened at Kitchener, Ont., today, but three other Victoria juniors were ousted in first-round open singles matches.

The Canadian Press reports Chapman turned back Ross Semple, of Toronto, 15-9, 15-12, while Victoria champion Harvey Hurd, Warren Bell and Jane Lee were dropping matches to senior opponents.

The four, together with Roger Lindal, will compete in the Canadian junior tourney and entered the open meet for experience.

Maureen Bray, sixth-ranked Canadian women's singles player, is Victoria's lone senior entrant.

Hospital Wing Seen Only Hope For Joint Centennial Plan

Airliner, 21 Aboard 'In Distress'

Nose Wheel Stuck Over Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A Capital Airlines Constellation with 21 persons aboard reported itself "in distress" today shortly after taking off from General Mitchell field and emergency equipment was rushed to the field.

Capt. Richard Pease, the ship commander, reported the plane's nosewheel stuck and he was unable either to extend it again or retract it.

His four-engine aircraft was carrying gasoline for nine hours of flying time.

The CAA operations office at the field said the course of action is "entirely up to the captain."

The plane, flight 930, landed here from Minneapolis this morning, and was bound for Detroit when it took off.

CONVICTS PARDONED FOR AIRLINER RESCUE

NEW YORK (AP)—Three city prison inmates were released Tuesday as a reward for their rescue work in the Feb. 1 plane crash on Rikers Island which took 20 lives and injured many others.

They were the first to receive such consideration among the 85 prisoners who assisted in the rescue. The city penitentiary is located on the island and the prisoners were sent to the scene following the crash of the Northeast Airlines plane.

All were serving sentences up to three years.

U.S. Gaza Proposal Before UN Today

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

UNITED NATIONS—The United States put finishing touches today to a resolution aimed at getting Israel's forces out of Egypt without using sanctions by placing the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area under United Nations control.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge hoped to put the measure, which is believed much the same as Canada's Lester Pearson proposal Tuesday, before the general assembly this afternoon.

He and his delegation spent this morning lining up additional sponsors in order to present the resolution with as broad a backing as possible. Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, in the thick of the negotiations, postponed until Thursday his departure for India.

Chief points of the resolution have been given to Israel and Egypt and the United States, with its co-sponsors, awaited reaction from Israeli foreign minister Mrs. Golda Meir and Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi, both of whom are here.

Pearson's four-point plan ran into immediate criticism from the Arab and Soviet blocs. But it was learned that the American delegation here welcomed the reaction from Israeli foreign minister Mrs. Golda Meir and Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi, both of whom are here.

In Washington where Secretary of State Dulles again met with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, the United States urged Israel to make a "voluntary withdrawal" from disputed Middle-East areas to avoid United Nations sanctions or other pressure.

Policeman Killed, Suspect Dies In Montreal Duel

MONTREAL (CP)—A police constable and a suspected burglar died today as a result of a pre-dawn gun-duel in the quiet residential district of Notre Dame de Grace in Montreal's west end.

Radio patrolman Charles House, 31, a 10-year veteran on the police force, died in Montreal General Hospital several hours after the shooting from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Anglican, RC MPs Voted Down

LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons voted Tuesday night 160 to 38 against a proposal to let Church of England and Roman Catholic clergymen be eligible for election to Parliament.

Anglican and Catholic clergy are barred from the Commons under an 1801 act. Other clergy are eligible. Labor member John Parker said the act is unfair and should be changed.

GAGLARDI CITES ROAD NEEDS

1,000 More Cars Monthly in B.C.

Aggressive planning is needed to meet British Columbia's future traffic needs, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi told the legislature Tuesday.

New vehicles are being registered at close to 1,000 a month, he said, and new highways will be needed to accommodate them.

Surveys were completed last year for 498 miles of new highways, including 50 miles on Vancouver Island, Mr.

Gaglardi said. In the first eight months of the present fiscal year the provincial highways department moved 12,500,000 cubic yards of dirt and rock, compared to 6,800,000 cubic yards during the whole of the previous year.

Mr. Gaglardi said the re-grouping of his department into districts under regional highway engineers had "greatly improved administration in the field."

Death Threat To Witness In Union Probe

(See also page 7)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Death threats against a star witness and his brother were reported today at a Senate rackets committee investigation of the Teamsters' Union.

James B. Elkins, a racketeer who said he had conspired with the Teamsters' Union to help gamblers get entrenched in Portland, Ore., told the committee he was personally threatened with death by Frank Brewster, teamsters' vice-president and chairman of the union's western conference.

And committee chairman John L. McClellan (Democrat, Arkansas) said the FBI had disclosed James' older brother, Carl, a businessman in Phoenix, Ariz., received a death threat by telephone Tuesday.

The witness himself told the committee, "I know they are going to do something to me."

He told the committee that Brewster once got red in the face and told him: "If you embarrass my boys you'll find yourself wading across Lake Washington (in Seattle) with a pair of concrete boots."

Elkins identified Brewster's "two boys" as William M. Langley, district attorney of Multnomah County in which Portland is situated, and Clyde C. Crosby, international organizer for the teamsters in Oregon.

Elkins had testified to a teamsters-gamblers district attorney tieup in Portland.

Disagreement Shown By Times' Survey

By PETE LOUDON

If the four municipalities of Greater Victoria ever reach agreement on a joint project to mark the centennial celebration of the province next year, the project is almost certain to be a new wing for the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

This was indicated today by a Times survey of thinking among leaders in the municipal districts.

General opinion appears to be this: If the hospital wing is not accepted, then each municipality will do something else on its own—projects of a much smaller nature.

Offhand remarks and hints from the representatives indicate that if agreement is not reached on the hospital plan there will be no agreement at all on a joint project.

Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt would each support individual projects and Saanich might even pass up the government birthday present of 60 cents for every resident.

Cold facts support this proposition. In order to get the 60-cent grant each municipality must match it dollar for dollar. Saanich would have to raise about $23,000 of the Greater Victoria total of $75,000.

But Saanich councillor Leslie Passmore said last week, "We haven't a dollar for a non-essential project." He said all the other Saanich aldermen were content to observe a rigid economy on the advice of the municipality's banker and financial advisers in Canadian bond houses.

He said the municipality had not been able to dispose of a $150,000 bond issue floated last year to finance a waterworks expansion.

There is strong council opinion, however, that the proposed new hospital wing must be built. It is essential and if the province will pay 60 cents per capita toward the construction, it will reduce the share Saanich expects to have to pay anyway.

Oak Bay Pool Ruled Out

In Oak Bay there was recently a well-founded report that council would keep its grant money to build an Oak Bay swimming pool. It has since been almost ruled out due to expense, but the do-it-ourselves pattern, long established, was re-evaluated.

At the same time Oak Bay official reaction to the hospital plan, aside from centennial talks, has been strongly in favor of an early start.

No alternative centennial proposal has replaced the fading swimming pool, and the hospital issue, from an emergency point of view, is "red hot."

Esquimalt council sent its delegate to the centennial committee to press for a hospital wing. Monday night it gave consideration also to development of Gorge Park. But Reeve A. C. Wurtele observed this morning, "If other municipalities want the hospital we'd go along."

Esquimalt delegate G. K. Sammon says the hospital is needed and would be appropriate as the hospital's 100th birthday falls in 1958 too; and finally the project fits the description of centennial projects described by Premier Bennett. It would be "of lasting value and significance to the community."

Provincial centennial chairman L. J. Wallace wouldn't confirm the hospital wing would be approved, but he agreed it appeared to fit the verbal blueprint.

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee meets again March 7 and screening of dozens of other suggestions will begin. There will be argument from chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood for an addition to Memorial Arena. And if Ald. E. D. McEwen weren't going to be in the east he would likely support the multiple museum plan submitted by architects Clack, Clayton and Pickstone.

But the meeting, if it is prolonged, may turn out to be a waste of time, for as one committee member has stated, "The hospital wing is a foregone conclusion," and only one municipality

Chamber Supports Demand For Fort Victoria Project

The Chamber of Commerce civic affairs group at its next meeting on March 7, will be asked to support the proposal for the reconstruction of old Fort Victoria—a centennial project.

A plan for the project, which would also provide for the development of related museums in the future, has been prepared by city architects, Clack, Clayton and Pickstone.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said the group will be asked to make a definite stand on some centennial project.

"The old Fort Victoria project is gaining in popularity," he said. "Many people like the project because of its historical overtones which are in keeping with centennial year."

The civic affairs group also will receive a report on the proposed institution of a business tax in Victoria.

So they want t' celebrate a hundred years o' progress by buildin' a bigger convalescent ward.

The Middle East peace plan is what y' might call still UN-developed.

An' now we will all rise an' sing the old favorite: "From Greenland's spicy bounty t' Gundy's moral stand."

PRAYER FOR TODAY

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gagliardi's On Jettison Mikes!

When Highways Minister Philip Gagliardi addresses the legislature, such new-fangled inventions as desk microphones and electric amplifiers are superfluous.

The booming tenor voice rolls around the corridors with such vehemence that the casual visitor might be excused for thinking he had strayed into a state opera house by mistake.

Not even the great Caruso himself could put more passion into his voice than does the Reverend Mr. Gagliardi when he says such things as: "I have been bottling myself up all through this session, and I am just about ready to EXPLODE!"

Mr. Gagliardi proceeded to explode so effectively that not a soul slept in the public galleries and a group of visitors in the rotunda, normally beyond sound of the legislature, listened in awe-stricken silence.

One of them, a slim middle-aged man, looked rather pale as he asked me: "What's going on in there?"

Mr. Gagliardi boomed his way through 20 or 25 pages of typewritten manuscript and, on the inspiration of the moment, added a number of fiery interpolations.

Confounded, Confused, Frustrated—CCF

He thundered at the CCF opposition, calling them "Confounded, Confused and Frustrated" and accusing them of trying to obstruct the government's dynamic construction programs — particularly its construction of highways.

Only a few years ago, he said, British Columbia was just a "sleeping giant." It had no conception of its own strength until the Social Credit government freed it from the "bondage" of the old-line parties.

Now the CCF and the Liberals, aided by Mr. Tight Money of Ottawa, were throwing road blocks in the way.

Poker Game Strategy Slows Progress

He declared the federal government had "broken" hundreds of small businessmen with its credit restrictions and he called this part of a "poker-game strategy" to hold back progress.

Mr. Gagliardi was quick to add that he no longer played poker himself. But in the days long past—before he knew better—he had played poker and done all sorts of other things that most men do.

Once, when he was proclaiming the government's road-building achievements, CCF leader Robert Strachan broke in with:

"Don't be so modest." "Why should I be modest?" thundered Mr. Gagliardi. "Why shouldn't I do a bit of shouting and jumping around when I have something to shout about?"

Premier Bennett obviously enjoys his extrovert highways minister, for he laughed and applauded continuously throughout Mr. Gagliardi's one-and-a-half hour speech and more than once looked up at the galleries as if to say:

"This is the kind of enthusiasm Social Credit produces."

After the emotional and dramatic impact of Mr. Gagliardi, the House settled down to a more or less routine afternoon.

And then, his voice rising in a frenzy of indignation, Mr. Gagliardi cried:

"Let them throw in our path every obstruction they can conceive. And let them watch as we leap over them."

At almost any moment you expected Mr. Gagliardi to ring out some such Churchillian phrase as "We will never surrender," for his voice, at least, has a Churchillian splendor.

Having more or less disposed of the local opposition parties, Mr. Gagliardi trained his long-range artillery on the Tight Money Brigade in Ottawa.

... CENTENNIAL

ality has to bow out and the whole idea of a unified project will collapse.

Latest estimate of the hospital wing is $1,800,000.

About $455,000 of the total would be paid by the Greater Victoria municipalities. If the centennial "pot" of $150,000 were applied this would leave only $305,000 to be contributed from general revenue of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

A "guesstimate," based on earlier cost-sharing proposals (which favored Victoria because of past heavy commitments to the hospital), would split costs as follows: Victoria $110,000, Saanich $123,000, Esquimalt $41,000 and Oak Bay $41,000.

30 YEARS TO PAY

The municipalities would have three years to spread their contributions as the project would take that long to complete.

The laying of the cornerstone of the centennial wing would be assured of pomp and ceremony. The municipalities have agreed to lump the 40-cent grant they receive from the B.C. government with no strings. It is for celebration purposes—and if the four centres get together, it will be due cause for a hands-across-the-borders shindig.

Only one of the many other centennial promotions is likely to share in the grant money—the old Craigflower School.

Before coming into the centennial pool Saanich council promised to spend $5,000 to help renovate the old building. On Thursday night the inter-municipal centennial group resolved to spend $5,000 of its celebration fund for that purpose, to honor the Saanich promise.

New Cassiar Road Hailed in North

Provincial government officials said today they still have received no official word of Ottawa's offer to share the cost of the Cassiar-Stewart road in northwestern B.C.

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair made the announcement in Ottawa Tuesday, saying his government was prepared to pay half the estimated cost of $12,000,000.

Mr. Sinclair gave the length of the road, which starts at the Yukon boundary and runs southward parallel to the Alaska Panhandle to Stewart, as 250 miles.

However some 130 miles have been completed since work was started in 1947 on the mining access road.

Work was halted last year when the road had reached Dease Lake, following a stormy legislative committee hearing into charges of laxity and patronage in construction of the road.

The announcement that work will proceed again was hailed by civic and business leaders in northern B.C.

GREAT BOON

Bruce Brown, vice-president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and former Liberal MLC who took an active role in the committee investigation, said the road would help tremendously in opening up the northwest portion of B.C.

"It could open up an empire that will eventually dwarf the Wenner-Gren development plan," he said.

In Vancouver, Tom Elliott, manager of the B.C.-Yukon Chamber of Mines, welcomed the announcement of the federal-provincial deal on the Stewart-Cassiar road as "wonderful news."

The road will pass through the heart of "very rich mineral-bearing country" and will help solve the problem of shipping asbestos from Cassiar to tidewater, he said.

WAITING FOR IT

"It's exactly what the industry has been waiting for," Mr. Elliott said. "It will become one of the most important roads in the north country."

It was not known whether the agreement, which calls for a road with a four-inch gravel top capable of being surfaced at a later date, would mean that the 130 miles of present construction will have to be rebuilt.

It was charged before the committee last year that much of the work was of an inferior grade.

Mines Minister Kenneth Kler-

nan, under whose department the road will be placed, is expected to give more details of the agreement when he speaks to the Legislature for the first time this session on Thursday.

IN PARLIAMENT

B.C. Fishermen's Gamble Paid Off

(From Times News Services)

The House Tuesday night heard suggestions that a "get-tough" policy by British Columbia fishermen prompted United States agreement to bring pink salmon under jurisdiction of the international Pacific salmon fisheries commission.

The suggestions were made by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC, Esquimalt, Saanich) and George Hahn (SC, New Westminster) as the House discussed a resolution preliminary to parliamentary ratification of an agreement to extend the jurisdiction of the six-man commission.

Spokesmen for all parties supported the proposal to bring the pink salmon fishery under the commission, set up in 1930 to supervise and regulate sockeye salmon fishery on the west coast.

Fisheries Minister Sinclair said the commission has an extraordinary record of achievement in regulating the $35,000,000-a-year sockeye fishery and he felt confident that it could do the same for the pinks. He was anxious for rapid approval of the amendment to the original treaty between Canada and the U.S. establishing the commission.

Mr. Hahn said he was perturbed by Mr. Sinclair's statements last year that Canadian fishermen on the west coast had to outfish Americans for pink salmon "to bring the Americans to their senses."

"But the gamble paid off," he said as Mr. Sinclair nodded.

Gen. Pearkes said that for years B.C. fishermen pleaded that the pink fishery—which in 1955 had a commercial value of more than $15,000,000—be brought under the regulatory powers of the commission.

Cut-Throat Competition—Pearkes

But the Canadian government had been unwilling to take the initiative until recently. The U.S. had not been interested until Canadians began making inroads into U.S. pink catches by going farther out to sea in the approaches to the Strait of Juan de Fuca and to Puget Sound.

The pink salmon passes through these waters, where U.S. fishermen formerly caught as much as 65 per cent of the catch, before going into the Fraser River to spawn.

Gen. Pearkes said the Canadian fishermen had to enter into "cut-throat" competition to get their fair share of the pink fishery, but it had been an uneconomical process and threatened to deplete the pink fishery.

There now were indications that the pink salmon fishery might eventually become bigger than the sockeye fishery.

The CCF continued its opposition to a bill that would permit Trans-Mountain Oil Pipe Line Co. to split its stock five shares for one.

Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre) said it's "no secret" that stock-splitting is usually done to make money. The split shares would be put on the market at a reduced price so that they could begin climbing again.

Profit allowed this way to a few individuals was as much a tax on the "sweat and toil" of workers and farmers as was income tax.

This bill, sponsored by Dr. F. T. Falrey (L-Victoria), would permit the company to increase its shares to 25,000,000 from 5,000,000. They currently are selling for about $110 each.

Mr. Knowles spoke on a CCF amendment presented earlier to postpone second reading—approval in principle—and refer the subject matter of the bill to a committee, which in effect would kill the bill this session. No action was taken on the bill when debate on it ended.

Mr. Knowles said "we don't complain because people are making wealth" if they make it legitimately by their own labor. But when "faced with this sort of thing we rise up to object."

Prime Minister St. Laurent said there is no need for a special parliamentary committee to investigate the spread of food prices between the producer and retail levels.

Fred S. Zaplatny (CCF, Dauphin) asked whether the government had taken any steps along this line in view of recommendations from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Hundreds Forced From Homes As Floods Hit U.S. Northwest

SEATTLE (AP) — Fed by daries Tuesday night and with snows melting under a warm sun, streams lacing three Pacific Northwest states rolled out of their banks into lowland towns and farms today, forcing the evacuation of hundreds of thousands of square miles of land.

At Wilson Creek, a town 110 miles southwest of Spokane, Crab Creek broke over its boundaries Tuesday night and with a short time water was five to six feet deep and still rising.

The 250 to 400 townspeople were evacuated to a high school north of town, but that region soon was cut off as roads silently slipped below the ever-rising liquid menace.

Some persons were reported trapped on rooftops or on second-floor levels but in no immediate danger. The water moved without force, doing little other damage than soaking homes and furnishings as it rose.

Okanogan County in north central Washington was an isolated island, its 5,294 square miles completely cut off.

Voting is compulsory in Venezuela between the ages of 21 and 65.

Rationing Credit

WHEN THE WOODWORKERS' unions of British Columbia demand lower interest rates on home building they are proposing one of two alternatives.

The Federal Government, through its central bank, can increase the total supply of money, thus artificially reduce interest rates and abandon all serious attempts to check inflation.

Or the Government can begin to ration the existing money supply, channel more of it into home building and less into other things like industrial expansion.

It was not to be supposed that strong measures against inflation could be long maintained without serious political trouble. The complaints of the lumber workers, of municipalities and other groups are part of an inevitable protest against any real anti-inflation policy.

The Government had foreseen this discontent and the possibility that the money supply would have to be rationed, to some degree anyway—unless, of course, the inflation eased and more money could safely be created.

It would be possible, though extremely difficult, to ration money for private investment such as homes. The Government could itself borrow some part of the total supply at the going interest rates, as fixed in the market (not by the Government) and then lend it, at a lower rate, to home builders or others. The taxpayers would pay the loss thus sustained. Or the Government could disregard the inflationary consequences and simply issue more money through its bank.

How the Government will handle the home-building and similar problems of credit shortage in some sectors of the economy no doubt will depend on the Government's judgment of the inflationary pressure. At least it should.

But of course the Government may do what it knows to be unwise economically and what it thinks wise politically. An inflationary increase in the money supply might be considered good politics and its results, in the form of prices, would not show until the election was past.

Whatever the Government may do about credit policy in general—and all it has done so far is to hold the money supply at the existing level—the British Columbia lumber industry's problems cannot be cured by any action in Ottawa.

Before our export lumber markets softened we were selling a large part of our total output to other nations like the United States and Britain. Even if the Canadian market could be increased to its former volume by some form of credit manipulation we would still need our foreign markets, at their old level, to maintain our former output. The Canadian Government has no shadow of control over those markets.

The lumber industry itself, however, has some measure of control over them. It can strive to compete with lumber from other countries such as those of the Baltic, where Britain is buying most of its lumber today. To do so it must meet the price of these other exporters.

If it cannot compete in foreign markets, our industry is bound to suffer a decline in total output for the simple reason that Canada cannot begin to use all its own lumber, any more than it can use all its own paper, minerals and wheat.

The productive cost and hence the price of our lumber is the vital factor. It cannot be removed by our own credit policies, however inflationary they may be. And it should not be forgotten that the decline in our lumber markets, both domestic and foreign, is mainly the result of inflation here and in other countries. When our prices become too high they are resisted by customers, Canadian and foreign.

Ready for the Final Curtain?

LIKE MANY A DICTATOR BEFORE him, General Francisco Franco of Spain has been able for some 20 years to control the political and social development of his country. But, also like other similar figures in history, he finds himself unable to control two very important elements in the existence of any nation. He cannot control the weather, and he cannot control economic law.

Today General Franco is struggling with economic difficulties that have been brought on by the weather. And these two factors have resulted in a third—public discontent—which may well prove too much for his aging regime to handle.

These are the reasons behind yesterday's announcement of drastic changes in the Spanish cabinet—changes which were made at the expense of the only legal political party in Spain, the Falange.

Heavy frost this winter seriously damaged the citrus crops; drought has hurt the winter wheat crop; hydro-electric output has been reduced by the lack of rain; power cuts have curtailed industrial production.

The immediate results of these setbacks have been that Spain's gold reserves have melted away—from $94 millions in December, 1955, to $10 millions at present. Inflation has hit the country, there is a heavy budget deficit, the peseta is falling on the international exchanges.

Translated into human terms, these developments mean that the cost of living is rising in Spain. A round of wage increases last November has been overtaken by rising prices. The people are resentful of Government policies, and for the first time in two decades they are beginning to speak openly in criticism of the regime.

There are few legal ways in which opposition can be expressed. But in mid-January a 12-day public boycott of the Barcelona bus system had nearly 100 per cent effectiveness. For nearly two weeks policemen were almost the only passengers of the transportation system.

The state-controlled press was not permitted to mention the boycott; the rest of Spain heard of it only indirectly. But the incident showed the temper of the people. With intensification of inflation expected this fall, more serious protests may occur.

As one manifesto circulated in the country declares: "The majority of Spaniards are prisoners of a vicious circle that is corrupting their will and imagination... Today the Spaniard has no sense of responsibility because he has no rights."

For 20 years the Caudillo has weathered domestic storms, but the latest unrest appears to be deeply rooted. The Spaniards are a proud people. At last they are finding dictatorship irksome. And when to this is added economic adversity—it could well be that General Franco, last of the pre-war fuhrers, is answering his cue for the final act.

May His Recovery Be Speeded

CANADIANS OF ALL POLITICAL faiths from coast to coast have heard with deepest regret of Mr. M. J. Coldwell's illness. To him they express the sincere sympathy earned by a man universally respected.

It is to be hoped that Mr. Cold-well will be restored quickly to good health and vigor, will be able to resume the responsibilities he has shouldered so well and will lead his party with customary dignity and effectiveness in the coming federal election. Canada can ill spare men of his stamp.

Killing in Gas Stocks

OBVIOUSLY NEITHER PARLIAMENT nor the Canadian public has fully understood the Trans Canada Pipelines deal. Mr. Howe's admission that he forgot to reveal certain vital facts is only the latest in the series of mistakes that marked the deal from the beginning.

It now appears that two officials of Trans Canada Pipelines have made a clean-up in the stock market. There would be nothing objectionable about their profits but for two facts.

The first is that Trans Canada was able to finance, and its two leading officials were able to make their personal killing, only because the taxpayers of Canada guaranteed the deal. This project is entirely different from projects financed privately where, as Mr. Howe says, stock profits were made.

Secondly, the officials' killing was part of the deal approved by Mr. Howe and, on his advice, underwritten by the Government. Yet Mr. Howe told Parliament last year that there were no hidden personal profits in the deal. Now he has to apologize to Parliament and confess that he forgot this minor detail.

The gains of two individuals are financially insignificant in a scheme of such cost. The much larger fact overlooked by Parliament is that Canada will not receive for gas exported by Trans Canada as much money, by many millions, as it could have secured from another scheme and other builders. Parliament, eager to score debating points against Mr. Howe is strangely complacent about this costly blunder.

The Castaways

THE HUCKSTERS

By B. A. TOBIN

Whose Cheese Is It?

I SEE the nibblers are at it again. The nibblers are the people who consider a public park as a huge piece of cheese, and never miss an opportunity to try to chew a little bit off the edges or burrow into the middle of it.

Tobin

They are the people who see in an expanse of velvety green lawn merely a fine level stretch where a gravelled parking lot could be established; who view a rose garden as a good place to sell something; who consider a woodland glade as property to be improved, by which they mean to cut down what God has built and erect something of their own in its place.

In the present instance, the nibblers are again regarding Beacon Hill Park as ripe for improvement. Not content with lawns, rose gardens, venerable oaks and beautiful seascapes, they are contemplating improving these tawdry attractions by building a restaurant in the sacred precincts of the park. A setting which already provides Victorians with a wealth of beauty and rustic pleasure beyond price, they see merely as a favored site to make a few extra dollars.

Now it is not surprising that a restaurant operator should interpret a public park in terms of a handy place to sell food.

Nor is it astonishing that the chap who wanted to turn Ross Bay cemetery into a playground and Thetis Lake Park into a zoo should now be hungering for turn Beacon Hill into a backdrop for what is described as a "commercial enterprise."

Et Tu Brute!

But it is disappointing to learn that other members of the city council—men whose vision as a rule is not bounded by peanut stands and souvenir counters—are toying with the idea.

Of course the nibblers will not march openly on the park and destroy it overnight. Committees will be formed, meetings will be held, legal experts will delve into the deed of trust—mark that word "trust"—by which the parkland was given to the city for all time.

There will be a great consulting of tomes and bylaws, a great searching of precedents and subsections of relevant clauses—as though politicians and lawyers in a musty back room could decide a question of such magnitude.

Surely it is intelligence, decency and foresight, not merely the restriction of a legal phrase, that restrains us from despoiling our park. Is it only the threat of the law that keeps us from stealing from each other?

The citizens to decide the issue are not the juridical experts in their offices. The proper judges are the little girl in the blue frock running delightedly over the lawn, after a waddling emerald mallard; the little boy entranced by the wonder of a gliding white swan; the aged couple strolling quietly along the shaded path, secure for a few precious minutes from the din of a civilization that has destroyed many of the values they once held dear.

The proper judges are the mothers who take their babies under the oaks of a summer afternoon to play in safety and a peace known in few other places in these days. They are the tweed-dressed striders of both sexes who breast the clean breeze along the edge of the Strait; the young couples who sit in swings near the tulip beds to hold hands and dream dreams; the thousand-and-one citizens who find in the park—free from the ring of cash registers, the smell of cooking and the clatter of eating utensils—the sort of haven which is becoming all too rare in our times, a redoubt against insanity which must be held inviolate at all cost.

It has been boasted that "we could make $100,000 a year up there if it was run properly." Who couldn't make a hundred thousand—if he's prepared to depreciate his asset by a hundred million?

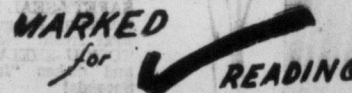

On and On

The restaurant, no matter how coyly camouflaged, would be only the first step. If the parks department is to go into the food business—if money-making is the only criterion—why would it stop there?

Once the principle is destroyed there would be no end to the wonderful commercial opportunities. Why not a drug store under the totem pole, a liquor vendor's at the flagpole lookout, a shooting gallery in Mr. Warren's incomparable rose garden and a supermarket beside the lake?

There are first, second and third generation Victorians to whom a "commercial enterprise" in Beacon Hill Park would be akin to a hot dog concession in the chance of the Cathedral. They are the people who should be consulted before any further damage is done.

I dare you, gentlemen, to put the question to a public vote and to stake your council seats on the outcome.

CHARACTERISTIC WORD

In science there is one word which the whole world owes to England, the word for the fundamental process of all modern scientific investigation, and that is the word "experimental" introduced by Francis Bacon—which has been called "the greatest and most characteristic word which English has contributed to human thought."

'Mike' and a Halo

I would like to suggest that there is a very large section of Canadian public opinion that is not prepared to accord to Mr. Pearson the halo which is being draped around his head by The Victoria Daily Times and no doubt by other papers that support the present Canadian government.

After the British and French had acted in Egypt he was one of the first to realize that the United Nations would be compelled to take action and that a suggestion to that effect would therefore be acceptable. I do not think he can claim any more than that.

Any attempt to get action by the United Nations before the British and French action would undoubtedly have failed. Immediate action was absolutely necessary and it is this fact which constitutes the justification for what the British and French did.

The failure of the Canadian government to realize this both then and now is something that is not going to be washed out in a hurry and is not going to be forgotten at the coming election.

Monorail Model

I feel certain that many of your readers have seen the monorail which has stood for so many years on the Glasgow Road near Milngavie in Scotland. The much talked of monorail was invented by George Binnie whose business of engineers was in Glasgow, and who made his home at Craigmare, Island of Bute.

When I was a student I had an invitation one afternoon in connection with one of the leading newspapers to see this monorail model working. I thought it fantastic, with tremendous possibilities, but evidently it was out of the question for Britain, but why the lack of foresight for Canada, Australia, and South Africa? Unless it was Canada's below zero temperatures in winter. However, Australia and South Africa don't have this problem.

I was knitting but I had to put it down. My mind was repeating the questions, "Why has Wenner-Gren waited since the nineteen twenties to get his hands on this big, rich 40,000 square miles here in the heart of our British Columbia? Is this the first time there was a clique in power that he could deal with?"

Helped the Handicapped

May we use your columns to express our gratitude to all who patronized the rummage sale in aid of the handicapped, held at the Goodwill Enterprises' store Feb. 16?

We also wish to assure all who so generously donated the articles of clothing, furniture, etc., that their kind thoughtfulness is appreciated in more ways than mere words can express.

To the newspapers and radio stations, without whose willing assistance the effort could not have succeeded, we are especially grateful.

We trust that all who in any way have helped will feel rewarded in the knowledge that they have helped the program of rehabilitation of the handicapped one step forward in this area—that ultimately they will realize their assistance is more than just a contribution to its success—that it is in all reality an investment in human values, the dividends from which can be measured not only in dollars but in respect, worth and dignity of the individual and essential gain to society.

Payment to Japanese POWs

The following is a statement issued by Mr. Charles A. Clark, D.C.M., National President of the Hong Kong Veterans Association, in answer to a news item printed in the "Daily Times" dated: Ottawa, Jan. 17, 1957, which read, "Canadian POW's reported paid more than their share."

"This news article is misleading as it infers that the Canadian Government paid to former Japanese POW's $1 per day for each day of imprisonment. This is not right and we have documentary evidence signed by responsible ministers of the Crown to prove the following facts:

At the termination of Second World War the Canadian Government held over six million dollars of Japanese assets.

In 1949, after receiving advice from War Claims Commission of the United States that all POW's had legal claim against any enemy government where mistreatment could be proven while they were prisoners of war, we immediately contacted the Minister of Veterans Affairs, the Honorable Milton Gregg, and informed him that we would make a claim for repatriation within the terms of International Law laid down by the Geneva Treaty of 1929, also a signed agreement made by Japan and Canada at the Japanese Legation in Bern in February of 1942 regarding the treatment of prisoners of war.

Because of the continued delay in making a decision in this matter, in the year 1951 we sought legal advice from the Honorable Arthur Roebuck, Q.C., and Mr. Frank Power, M.P., and through them successfully established our claim which was paid out of enemy assets held in this country. The true record will prove that the Canadian taxpayer has not paid one cent to the former Japanese Prisoners of War, but, ironically enough, the Canadian Government has paid out millions of dollars since 1945 for the repatriation, relocation and general welfare of many alien nationals who were our former enemies.

We, the Hong Kong Veterans Association of Canada, wish only the respect of the Canadian people. We seek no charity grants and we ask only for that which we are entitled to under International Law and The Veterans Charter.

If you are interested, letters, documents and records supporting the facts stated in this letter are available at my home, 336 Beech Avenue, Toronto, and as there are two sides to this question, in all fairness, our side should be published."

FROM WASHINGTON

By STEWART ALSOP

Mr. Khrushchev's Price

THE report by this reporter's partner of his interview with the Soviet Union's number one man, Nikita S. Khrushchev (published on this page last Friday), has of course been covered over word for word by the government's Soviet experts. The most important words, they agree, were those in which Khrushchev spelled out the Soviet price for withdrawing the Red Army from the satellites.

Alsop

Khrushchev was more specific in this respect than any Soviet spokesman has ever been before. In return for withdrawing the Red Army, he said, "Western European countries would also withdraw their troops stationed in the territories of other Western European countries. The United States would also withdraw its troops to American territory from Europe and Asia, and along with that would go the liquidation of all foreign bases."

Thus Khrushchev demanded the liquidation of NATO—and of course it has always been assumed that this would be part of the price. But Khrushchev also demanded, in effect, the total liquidation of the American power position, not only in Europe but Asia. He demanded the withdrawal of American forces everywhere, from Greenland to Okinawa.

Permanent Regimes

Another part of his price was that the Western powers should recognize the Communist regimes as permanent—"to accept this, as a believer would say, as something given by God."

The clear implication here is that, even after the Red Army withdrew, the Soviets would claim the right to use force to prevent the overthrowing of the "God-given" Communist regimes.

Khrushchev's statement has thus greatly strengthened the negative side in a vitally significant subterranean debate which has been going on within the American government. The debate has centered around these questions:

Is it worth while to attempt seriously to negotiate with the Soviets on their terms for withdrawing the Red Army to their borders? If so, what price might the United States and the West be prepared to pay for such a withdrawal?

The debate has been subterranean because the subject of debate is as internationally sensitive as it is possible to be. Yet it has been a most serious debate all the same. Indeed, the subject has been discussed repeatedly by the President and the members of the National Security Council.

The immediate impetus of the debate was provided by the Hungarian uprising. Hungary seemingly proved three things.

First, the Red Army, and only the Red Army, held the Soviet satellite empire together.

Second, the only help for the satellites therefore lay in the withdrawal of the Red Army.

Third, failing such a withdrawal, further uprisings in the satellites were probable, and such uprisings—especially in East Germany—involved the clear risk of a world war.

Soviet Premier Bulganin's letter of Nov. 30 to President Eisenhower, when the Hungarian revolt was at its height, further stimulated the secret debate. For the Bulganin letter proposed, at least by implication, a mutual 500-mile withdrawal from a demilitarized zone in Central Germany.

Such a withdrawal would take American forces out of Germany, and thus for all practical purposes off the continent. But it would also take the Red Army out of most of the satellite area.

Mutual Withdrawal

A minority within the U.S. government, chiefly Harold Stassen and State Department policy planner Robert Bowie—contended that this at least suggested that the Soviets might be in a mood to negotiate seriously about mutual withdrawal.

Outside the government, ex-Ambassador to the Soviet Union George Kennan, who still has enormous influence with the foreign service professionals, also argued that the time had come to "study the various possibilities for... withdrawal of both Soviet and American forces from Central and Eastern Europe."

The President was impressed by such arguments. The Pentagon especially was violently opposed. Ultimately it was decided to hold the whole matter in abeyance.

But Khrushchev's statement seems to have written final to the debate, perhaps once and for all. For Khrushchev's price was not a withdrawal of American forces from continental Europe, but a withdrawal of all American forces, in Asia as well as Europe, back to the continental United States.

This is not a serious basis for negotiation, and in the view of the best judges, it was not intended to be. In short, if there ever was a time when a new approach looking towards world settlement was possible, that time appears to have passed.

The Ship That Never Was

NEW YORK—The title of this story might be "The ship that never was," and we deem it worth telling it only for the insight it may provide into the strange workings of international diplomacy.

In the last week much has been made in the public print here, in Canada, and in the world at large about a reported Canadian proposal for a United Nations Naval patrol in the Straits of Tiran and the Gulf of Aqaba.

This was described as an extension of the concept of the United Nations Emergency Force—a sea-borne branch of UNF designed to ensure freedom of navigation into the Gulf of Aqaba, upon which is situated the Israeli port of Elath.

Whatever comes of this idea, let it be said here and now that if Hon. Lester B. Pearson is going to achieve new laurels as the "Father of the UNEF Naval patrol," then several members of the press corps are entitled to be called its uncles. Several, and I do not exclude myself, may feel entitled to an issue of navy gold braid and perhaps a tot of good Royal Canadian Navy rum.

We gentlemen of the press achieved this curious and certainly highly dubious distinction in the following manner, incredible as it may seem to those who feel that diplomacy is best left to the diplomats:

In an early UNEF speech before the General Assembly, Mr. Pearson made reference to possible "land, air and sea" components for the United Nations Emergency Force.

NOTHING POSITIVE

The land and air components have come into being, with heavy Canadian participation. It occurred to one Canadian correspondent, about two weeks ago, to telephone Mr. Pearson from Washington and ask him if anything was cooking about a possible sea component, having in mind the deadlock over the Aqaba waters.

Mr. Pearson says his reply to that inquiry was that there had been no positive suggestions, but that the idea might be worth exploring in due course. It could be, he said, that a combined air and sea patrol might be more effective in policing those waters than a military unit ashore. But no such proposal had been put forward, and Canada was not plugging it.

The correspondent in question thereupon wrote a story exploring the possibilities of a sea patrol in the Gulf of Aqaba, with Canada participating as a member of UNEF.

This story then was taken up by a news agency in Ottawa, and from that dateline there emerged a story about broad new Canadian proposals for a naval patrol in the Gulf of Aqaba.

Several of us confronted Mr. Pearson with this story here at United Nations headquarters, and he denied flatly that he or anybody in the Canadian delegation had made such a proposal. But he added that such a thing might come to pass if it seemed to have merit, and concluded by saying that if the commander of UNEF, Maj. Gen. Burns, and the Secretary-General of the United Nations, Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, "feel they want a boat, they can ask for one."

Now, the news agency story from Ottawa about "broad new Canadian naval proposals" had been picked up by the world agencies in New York and relayed to the ends of the globe. Mr. Pearson's denial never did catch up with the story, and his mention of the UN asking for a boat if it wanted one was picked up as confirming the original story that Canada was pushing the idea.

The word that "Canadian naval proposals" were cooking spread like wildfire. Almost every correspondent in the press corps here wrote a story on it, and Canadian correspondents were deluged with inquiries from their international colleagues. We personally checked with every member of the Canadian delegation from Mr. Pearson down and could get no reaction other than bewilderment. "We are not," they said flatly, "doing a thing about it. The story is a phony."

And that was that.

HOME GARDEN

Know Your Shrubs And When to Prune

Starting Friday, March 1, Hilda and Jack Beasall's columns on home gardening will be a daily feature.

By HILDA BEASALL

The importance of knowing the name of every shrub in the garden can be realized at this time of the year.

Certain shrubs require pruning now, and some others may be pruned at this time if they require it.

The deciduous, or leaf-losing, species of berries for instance may be cleaned up by cutting out all the old wood and shortening the branches.

If the plants have been neglected, now is the time to bring them back into healthy growth.

Buddleia variabilis (David), the butterfly-bush, fragrant, late summer shrub with long rounded spikes of lavender or white bloom, may now have each growth cut back to within a few inches of old wood. The flowers are borne at the ends of the long shoots which develop rapidly during spring and summer.

SHORTEN BRANCHES

Deciduous species of cotoneaster may have dead wood removed and branches shortened if growing into neighboring shrubs.

Lardizabala biterminalis, a little-known woody climber with interesting leaves and flowers, requires only sufficient thinning to prevent overcrowding. Good only in sheltered gardens.

To prevent Spanish Broom (Spartium junceum) from becoming tall and straggly, prune annually at this time. Cutting back all shoots to half length keeps the plants in good flowering condition for late summer and fall.

The attractive pink spiraea which produces flattish heads of dull pink blooms also in late summer, should now be pruned back to within a few inches of the ground. This treatment causes long new shoots to grow, and makes Spiraea bumalda, variety Anthony Waterer, a compact showy plant about three feet in height.

Should these shrubs be pruned after their flowering period in the fall, the chances are that the new growth thus induced would be killed back by winter frosts. Pruned in spring, the new growth will be gradual as the weather warms and will receive little setback from the elements.

The premier leaves Victoria Friday night for Edmonton and will return to Vancouver Sunday night.

With members of his cabinet he will attend the memorial service for Col. W. C. Woodward, former lieutenant-governor of B.C., on Monday.

Coldwell's Illness Puts CCF In Quandary on Eve of Election

By VICTOR J. MACKIE

Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Differences between two senior members of the CCF group in the House of Commons may lead to no action being taken to appoint an acting leader in the absence of M. J. Coldwell, national leader, who is in Ottawa Civic Hospital after a mild heart attack.

The 68-year-old party leader was stricken with the mild coronary thrombosis in his House of Commons office Monday. It was his second attack in 1952. It is doubtful that Mr. Coldwell will be able to return to the Commons before this session's dissolution early in April.

GRAVELY CONCERNED

Whether Mr. Coldwell will be recovered sufficiently to lead his CCF forces in the general election campaign this spring is a question that has the party's leaders gravely concerned. Premier T. C. Douglas was on the long distance telephone from Regina Monday, as soon as he heard the news, conferring with Stanley Knowles (CCF, Winnipeg North Centre).

GILLIS IS SENIOR

Clarence Gillis, 61, member of Parliament for Cape Breton South, is the senior CCF MP in the Commons and is in line for the acting House leadership. He is chairman of the CCF caucus. Next in seniority is Mr. Knowles, 49, the party whip.

Both Mr. Gillis and Mr. Knowles said today there would be no acting leader appointed, for the present.

There are reported to be two factions within the CCF group in the House. Mr. Knowles has attracted followers who think he has done an admirable job both during the last regular session and again this session, particularly on pipeline matters. Mr. Gillis has his supporters but some among the CCF group are worried because of his occasional lapses from the party line. For a while he did not attend caucus.

Differences within the party on the choice of an acting House leader might arouse disunion which the party wants to avoid at this time on the eve of an election.

Hazen Argue, the member for Saskatchewan's Assiniboia constituency, might be a compromise if the party should decide it needs an acting national leader.

Angus MacInnis, 72, veteran MP for Vancouver-Kingsway, ordinarily would be the acting leader because of his seniority. He has been an MP since 1930. But Mr. MacInnis is in ill health and has not attended the present session.

WINGS OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST TRAVEL SYSTEM

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

With Winnie at Yalta

LONDON—There's a story in everyone... My wife and I were in the local pub, having a quiet evening. She's still smarting under the fact that Grace Kelly beat her in the happy-event race.

"I'm getting bored with being a stand-in for Moby Dick," she says. Anyway, we were there at the bar and beside me was a fellow drinking a pint of bitter on his own.

I started to chat with him, as one does in a pub. But he did not seem a very prepossessing sort of bloke and I found the going rather heavy. I was about to look elsewhere for someone interesting to talk to when he happened to mention that he had been with the Royal Marines during the war. Then it came out that he and a fellow-officer had been Churchill's personal bodyguards at the Yalta conference. Now, this was something...

He told me how he and the other officer stood each side of Churchill's chair as Stalin entered the audience room for the first meeting of the three great men—Churchill, Stalin and Roosevelt. Stalin was accompanied by a dozen powerfully built men, none of whom appeared to be below the rank of general.

"And who are those?" asked Churchill. "My Kremlin guard," said Stalin, impressively.

"A fine body of men," remarked Churchill. Then he indicated the men each side of him, who held merely the ranks of major and lieutenant, and said: "These are my two marines."

Churchill was quartered in a former summer palace of the Czars and one day when my pub acquaintance, the erstwhile lieutenant of marines, was driving out of the palace he noticed a girl sitting in the window of a small house opposite. She was so strikingly beautiful that next time he passed he made a point of looking to see if she was still there. She was, and he essayed a smile, which she returned.

Next day she was again at the window and this time he waved. Graciously she waved back and on the following days it became a ritual for them to exchange greetings.

Then one day, prompted partially by her good looks and partially by curiosity as to why she was always at the window, he went to the house and "an old woman" who came to the door let him in. He found on closer inspection that the girl was indeed beautiful. More than that, she was intelligent, spoke English, was a former captain in the Russian women's army and proudly wore the Star of Lenin.

Why always at the window? he asked, and he learned that the palace had been a convalescent home for men and women officers and when it was required for Churchill, the Soviets had unceremoniously dumped all the patients out on the street.

"The other patients managed to find their way inland to other hospitals," she said.

"Why couldn't you?" he asked. She drew aside the blanket from her lap and said simply: "I have no legs."

Stalin Ready for War When Death Intervened

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Americans in the Far East while Telegraph says Josef Stalin he proceeded with his conquests was on the verge of plunging in Europe." Floyd says he was informed.

By the beginning of 1953, my informant said, it was apparent he was planning to go to war in the spring or summer of 1953.

David Floyd, a Telegraph reporter recently in Moscow, says he was told this by a Communist source "who had occupied for many years positions of responsibility in the Soviet regime."

The source declared the brain hemorrhage which ended Stalin's life was caused by rage at the signing of the Balkan treaty by Greece, Turkey and Tito's Yugoslavia.

LIQUOR EVILS OUTDO PROFIT SAYS GAGLARDI

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi said Tuesday the evil caused by liquor far outweighs any profits the government receives from its sale.

Mr. Gaglardi, who is also a Pentecostal minister, emphasized he was speaking personally when he said:

"The province of B.C. has never made any profit on liquor and it never will."

Liquor consumption costs the province millions of dollars in a number of ways, including such things as welfare payments in broken homes.

And the individual has to pay more for his automobile insurance policy because of liquor, he said.

January 1 was fixed as the start of the year when Julius Caesar reformed the calendar in 45 B.C.

'Shameful Display'—CCF Leader; 'You Can't Take It'—Minister

A tiff between Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi and Opposition Leader Robert Strachan lived up Tuesday's sitting of the legislature.

The ebullient highways minister tangled with Mr. Strachan after delivering a free-swinging attack on the opposition and extolling the "vision and courage" of the Social Credit government.

The CCF leader, obviously nettled at some of Mr. Gaglardi's remarks, broke into his speech and said it was a "shameful display."

"You should be ashamed of yourself," he told the minister. "You can't take it," Mr. Gaglardi retorted. "I'm not ashamed of anything I say."

The tension was eased somewhat at that point when the sage of the legislature, veteran Labour member Tom Uphill of Fernie, said the public galleries should be required to pay amusement tax for Mr. Gaglardi's performance.

Mr. Strachan jumped back into the fray and accused the minister of "word-twisting and dishonesty."

Mr. Gaglardi said he wasn't going to take any of that sort of talk and demanded a withdrawal.

"Withdraw, withdraw," the chorus went up from the government benches.

Mr. Strachan explained that he meant the minister twisted words, but Speaker Thomas Irwin ruled that he had made an allegation of dishonesty.

"Then I withdraw the allegation at this time," the CCF leader said.

That brought Premier Bennett to his feet, insisting that Mr. Strachan couldn't put any time factor on the withdrawal.

"I made the allegation at this time and I'm withdrawing it at this time," Mr. Strachan snapped back.

And that was that.

Mr. Gaglardi had previously angered the CCF leader by saying he (Mr. Strachan) had supported the federal government's tight-money policies which are responsible for breaking "hundreds of small businesses across Canada."

Ottawa Adopting 'Poker Game Strategy'

The minister said Ottawa was at fault in letting credit run loose too far.

"Then when it was out on a limb—they cut it off," he said.

"All of a sudden Ottawa pulled the string."

Mr. Gaglardi said the restrictive controls being enforced by the federal government were a "poker-game strategy," which has put hundreds of small traders out of business.

"I used to play poker at one time," Mr. Gaglardi said, "and I recognize poker-playing when I see it."

He suggested that these policies were tied to the forthcoming general election and added this was a "horrible thought."

"It's a heartless policy that reverts to the old boom and bust style of control," Mr. Gaglardi said.

"This policy restricts people from getting the ordinary things of life," he said.

Then, amid enthusiastic desk-thumping from his Social Credit supporters, Mr. Gaglardi said: "What Canada needs is a Social Credit government at Ottawa. And we're headed that way."

The minister praised the budget brought down last week as one that is going to "change the trend in the western world."

"There is more human legislation in that budget than any CCF government ever put in anywhere," he thundered.

"This budget will go down in history as one of the most aggressive ever presented to this House," Mr. Gaglardi said.

The CCF, he said, is confused and frustrated and has no policy. "It doesn't know whether it's operating under the Winnipeg fiasco or the Regina Manifesto," he cried.

The minister accused the CCF of always opposing government policies and then trying to take the credit for them after the government had them working smoothly a few years later.

"The CCF is always riding someone else's coat tails," he said.

Mr. Gaglardi defended the government's agreement with the Wenner-Gren interests to develop B.C.'s northland, and slammed a Times public opinion poll on the issue.

Returns in the poll indicate the plan is opposed by a margin of about 15 to 1.

"If I didn't know any more than was stated in the poll I would have voted against it too," Mr. Gaglardi said.

He charged the questions and statement preceding them were "ambiguous and didn't present the facts."

Gamblers Got Teamster Loans, Witness Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—A frightened witness told Senate investigators Tuesday that Local 690, of the Teamsters' Union loaned more than $50,000 to gamblers and saloon keepers in Seattle and Spokane.

The testimony came from Albert J. Ruhl, secretary-treasurer of the Spokane local, who reluctantly conceded he was afraid of retaliation from Dave Beck, boss of the giant union, because of his disclosures. Beck now is in Europe.

ARRANGED BY BECK

Ruhl swore that $30,000 in funds from his local was turned over to Sam Bassett, general counsel for the Teamsters on the West Coast, for investment in a Seattle tavern.

Robert Kennedy, counsel for the special committee investigating alleged racketeering in labor and industry, said the senators have an affidavit from Bassett saying the loan was arranged by Beck.

The first day of the Senate's new investigation also brought testimony from Wallace Turner, a reporter for the Portland Oregonian, that a combination of "racketeers and hoodlums who have risen to prominence and power in the Teamsters' Union" have acted to take over vice in Portland.

"They plotted the overthrow of the attorney-general of Oregon because he was violently opposed to organized prostitution."

Another Oregonian reporter, William Lambert, testified that William M. Langley, the district attorney in Portland, is still in office, although under indictment.

Tripled Victoria Envisaged by Ash

Reeve Elaborates on Proposal To Merge Urban Saanich, City

Urban Victoria would be more than tripled in area by following a plan to split Saanich, proposed by Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash in a speech to Victoria North Kiwanis Tuesday night.

The reeve elaborated on his proposal to separate urban from rural Saanich and unite the former with the city of Victoria; as outlined in his inaugural address in January.

He also renewed a plea for increased senior government responsibility to municipalities and questioned the federal government's methods in creating a "tight money" policy to curb inflation.

Follow School District 61 Boundary

Mr. Ash said Victoria's northern boundary should be placed about five miles farther out, to include that part of Saanich up to Prospect Lake, or roughly the line formed by School District 61.

From the lake this line runs irregularly to Mount Douglas Park with the deepest southerly dip to Dieppe Avenue.

This portion, for the municipal boundary and school district line, should be moved to Royal Oak, he suggested.

Easterly part of the border would run to Cordova Bay, thus including Gordon Head, Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point areas.

"Financial arrangements could be worked out just as they were when old Ward Six seceded from Saanich and formed Central Saanich," the reeve said.

More Efficiency in Policing

Advantages of such a scheme, he pointed out, include increased efficiency in policing, fire protection, works department services; unified by-laws for building, plumbing, electricity and planning.

(Fire and police chiefs in Saanich have claimed their departments would not benefit greatly by unification with city departments.)

To the argument against his plan—increased taxation—the reeve replied taxes are rising under present arrangements.

Mr. Ash referred to municipal improvements and credit restrictions, resulting in a "squeeze" from which there is no indication of relief this year.

He said he did not see how Finance Minister Walter Harris could ask that works projects be postponed when more people are moving to suburban areas, like Saanich, and demanding roads, sewers, watermains and street lighting.

U.K. Tourists Get Special Gas Ration

LONDON (Reuters)—A special gas ration will be made to overseas tourists in Britain this year, the power ministry announced today.

Arrangements have been made to issue gasoline to those overseas visitors who buy a car without intending to export it or who borrow one while in Britain.

Gas allowances for new cars not for export or second-hand cars will be for 1,000 miles for the first month plus 500 miles for each of the second and third months. For borrowed cars, the allowances will be for 500 miles for the first month and 250 miles for each of the following two months.

The ministry said that the "reasonable requirements" of overseas visitors who bring their own cars or buy a new car for export will also be met. No details of these allowances were available.

Houde Hints Again to Seek Mayoralty

MONTREAL (CP)—Ex-Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal has hinted he may throw his hat into the political ring again.

The 67-year-old former butcher boy, who grew up to be the largest mayor of Canada's largest city, said "the people" are pressing him to run for mayor this autumn for the eighth time.

"I don't think I have ever been as popular as I am now," he said. Acting on his doctor's advice he declined to run for office three years ago when Mayor Jean Drapeau was elected.

"I'm feeling much better now," he said while supervising plans for the auction Thursday of 365 lots of furniture and personal articles from his recently-sold home.

THIS SCREWBALL WORLD

Inebriant Knew His Horses (Perhaps the Judge Did Too)

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (Reuters)—Francis Saunders told a magistrate he could not pay a fine of £1 for drunkenness immediately, but would be able to following a horse race.

Magistrate Joseph Leech replied: "You can have seven days to pay—and we will keep our fingers crossed for you."

The horse came in the winner at six to one.

WATERPERRY, Eng. (CP)—Villagers can now buy beer at the post office in this Oxfordshire community. Sarah Biggs, the postmistress, was given the licence because the nearest inn is two miles away.

WINGHAM, Kent, England (CP)—In 1787, Prime Minister

William Pitt imposed a tax on clocks and watches ranging from 2s 6d to 10s a year.

Sales dropped so sharply that tavern keepers installed large-faced clocks in front of their hostleries to let the public know what time it was.

Douglas C. Hoad, landlord of the Dog Inn, recently restored one of the old clocks after years of service. He reports it still keeps perfect time.

REGINA (CP)—A truckload of fresh potatoes from the country arrived in Regina well roasted and all set for the dinner table.

The potatoes received an unexpected pre-cooking when a propane gas line broke and started a fire on the side of the truck.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY

Denny Boyd

Next year our province will have attained the chin-whiskery age of 100 years.

Because British Columbians are proud of their little slice of Canada, much head-scratching is being done to find the most fitting way to commemorate this most hallowed of birthdays.

The suggestions that have been made are more numerous than the years in B.C.'s life.

The suggestions include an historic rose garden, a replica of Fort Victoria, a new hospital wing, an Indian museum, an aquarium and a community youth centre.

The only two that interest me are the new hospital wing and the youth centre.

I want to deal with the latter.

A group of minor sports officials, including Colin Kilburn, Doug Fletcher, Jack Brice and Arthur Cox have made the proposal to the centennial committee as Victoria's joint project.

Now here, it seems to me, is a chance for Victoria to not only observe the centennial in most fitting fashion, but to erect a monument that will last, not just for one birthday, but for a generation.

Not only would we be building, but we would be erasing the black eye of B.C.'s capital city not having a centre reserved for our younger generation.

No Place Kids Can Call Their Own

In a brief to the centennial committee, the booster group said, "It is the firm belief of these gentlemen that the Centennial project for the Greater Victoria area should be the erection of a youth centre for the prime use of youths of the Greater Victoria area."

Now, to be honest, our local athletic youngsters are not bereft of sports facilities.

The kids can play hockey at Memorial Arena in the few spare hours of the week that can be allotted to them, usually early in the morning. But none of them get the ice time they need and want.

In the summer, minor lacrosse has dusty old Stevenson Park box and the Esquimalt box.

City churches have aided basketball immeasurably with their church gyms.

But there is no place in the city that the kids can call their own. Nor is there a place where they can stay the year round, switching sports through the seasons without moving to a new locale.

The Community centre would be the answer not only to these, but to other needs.

Preliminary plans call for the erection of a $100,000 sports plant between Memorial Arena and the Victoria Curling Club.

The land is there and needs only to be levelled.

Maintenance Costs Would Be Small

Because of its close proximity to the arena, the youth centre could use the same freezing plant that handles the arena. There would be no need to install new and costly freezing equipment.

Again, because of its proximity to the arena, the maintenance would be almost negligible as the arena engineers and management could care for both buildings at little extra cost.

The new building could:

1. Encourage greater winter interest not only in minor hockey, but in figure skating.

2. Tie in with the long-range minor lacrosse program drawn up by the Victoria Shamrocks.

3. Be used as a site for amateur boxing, wrestling and gymnastics and basketball.

4. Be utilized as a hobby and handicraft centre.

5. Accommodate band concerts.

6. Be used as a small civic auditorium.

7. Bring in revenue in rentals to various functions that bypass the city because of the heavy schedule of events at the arena.

8. Encourage youngsters to participate in sports and thwart delinquency.

$100,000 is a lot of money but our younger generation is a worthy investment.

I hope this suggestion is given the fullest consideration by the centennial committee.

Meteors Join Stars Of Tournament Trail

Victoria Meteors gave Victoria its third Vancouver Island basketball title at Victoria High School Tuesday night.

Meteors whipped Cordova Bay, 34-24, in the second game of a two-game series for the junior women's crown. The Meteors had grabbed a 36-20 lead in the series opener.

Meteors will now host the mainland champions at Victoria High early next month in a two-game set for the provincial title.

Last Saturday, Victoria College Vikings won the Island junior men's title and Dickinson & Dunn retained the senior "B" men's championship to advance into the B.C. finals.

Carol Gardiner set the scoring pace for Meteors Tuesday night with 10 points. Loretta Mitchell, who fired 14 points in the opening game, added six points for Meteors Tuesday.

Lineups: Cordova Bay—J. Warshawski 4, O. Warshawski 4, S. Poulson 2, J. Noonan 2, C. O. Anderson 2, M. Minter, D. Minter 4, Total—34.

Meteors—J. Hodie 2, J. Cole 3, C. Gardiner 10, L. Mitchell 8, S. Carlson 8, Caldwell 4, B. Fraser 4, R. Chivard 2, N. Bennett. Total—34.

Nanaimo Has Boxla Idea, Too

Delegates of the Intercity Lacrosse League will meet in Nanaimo Sunday to resume study of a list of proposed rule changes submitted by the Victoria Shamrocks.

The defending Canadian champion Nanaimo Timbermen are planning to toss another proposal into the pot.

The Rock proposals were tabled from an earlier meeting in Vancouver.

It has been learned that the Nanaimo delegation will attempt to have the Intercity League adopt the minor penalty rule being used in professional hockey.

The rule states that when a player receives a minor penalty, he will be allowed to leave the penalty box and return to play if the opposition team scores a goal during the time of the penalty.

The Nanaimo club states that no team should be allowed to capitalize on a penalty to the extent of ruining the game by scoring more than one goal while holding the manpower advantage.

The suggestion is probably aimed at the Victoria Shamrocks, whose powerful odd-man play on penalties has been the scourge of the league in recent years.

The Timbermen announced this week that they have signed young Harold Fox for this season.

Fox, slender forward who came up to the Mount Pleasant Indians two seasons ago through the junior ranks, is one of the fastest players in the league and is expected to add color and scoring punch to the Timbermen who have lost scoring ace Don Sherry to the Shamrocks.

The Thunderbirds will meet California University's Golden Bears tomorrow and Saturday at Berkeley in the first half of the series. Next Tuesday they will play an exhibition at Los Angeles against UCLA.

The final two games of the cup series between California and the 'Birds will be played April 4 and 6, at UBC Stadium. The four games win a majority of the team wins the cup, with total points the decisive factor in the event of an even split.

Dig That Hole Deeper—Vancouver Has Company

Canucks Regain Third As Cougars Muff Chance

Vancouver 4, Victoria 2

By DENNY BOYD

VANCOUVER—If, as stated in this vicinity recently, the Vancouver Canucks are dead, then the hole should be dug big enough for two. Because the Victoria Cougars looked every bit as sickly and buriable Tuesday night as did the Canucks Monday night. The Canucks, from whom only a faint muttering of heart beat could be detected in Victoria Monday when they gave up third place and a 6-1 victory to the Cougars, arose from the dead Tuesday in their home rink to at least temporarily mummify the Cougars.

The Canucks took back third place on the strength of a well-merited 4-2 victory and if the Canucks win in Seattle tonight, please omit flowers.

It was back to the old, hackneyed story Tuesday night for the Victoria Club that has yet to win three games in a row this season.

Whereas the Cougars of Monday night were full of dash and fire, the Victoria club of Tuesday night played drag-tail hockey.

The players who performed up to their full capabilities could be counted on the fingers of one catcher's mitt.

The Canucks, with three more games yet to play this week, take their one-point third-place lead into Seattle tonight. Regardless of tonight's outcome, they will still have at least a one-point lead over the Cougars Friday night when the Cats open a two-game, home-and-home series with Seattle while Vancouver meets New Westminster Royals in a similar date.

And regardless of the outcome of any of this week's games, the Cougars will pick up a small advantage in that they will have two games in hand over the Canucks by the end of the week.

Nelson Leafs Come to Rescue

The Canucks, down to panic stations over their acute manpower shortage, sent Don Ashbee back to Nanaimo Tuesday and brought down Don Appleton and Mickey Maglio, a pair of forwards from the Nelson Maple Leafs. The new acquisitions, down on a three-game trial basis, added a lot of spunk to the Canuck attack and Appleton scored what proved to be the winning goal on a classy effort.

The Canuck defense, which was Canucks' downfall Monday night, was their salvation Tuesday. Big Gordie Hudson, running hard at everyone, had one or two of the Cougars ducking at shadows all night, while Hugh Currie directed traffic admirably with his puck control and valuable point coverage.

There was no scoring in the first period although Larry Leach put a shot through Ray Mikulan at the 15-minute mark, only to see the puck hit the post and bounce out.

Jackie McLeod gave the Canucks a 1-0 lead at 1:45 of the second, scooping in a 10-foot backhand after defence-man Bud Syverson had kept the puck in the Cougar zone with a pair of fine solo rushes.

Victoria goalie Marcel Pelletier came up with big saves off Freddy Brown and Wiggie Wylie but Phil Maloney made it 2-0 at 14:20 when he drilled in a rebound from a Wylie shot.

Doug Anderson put the Cougars on the pay list a minute and six seconds later, completing a play started by Don Chiupka. Chiupka almost broke his back diving to poke in a pass from Colin Kilburn but the puck threatened to die on the goal-line until Anderson reached in and nudged it home.

But Appleton coolly reaffirmed Vancouver's two-goal lead at 17:15, collaring a rebound with Pelletier out of his net, calmly stepping back to find a better angle and flipping the puck into the short side. The Cougars had failed four times to clear the puck out of their zone prior to the goal.

Marc Takes Injury and Insult

Pelletier was hit in the mouth by Motto McLean's skates during a goal-mouth pile-up at 18:45 of the second and picked up a four-stitch cut on his mouth and a chipped tooth.

Maloney got Vancouver's last goal at 5:07 of the third period on an unlikely shot, shooting from deep in the corner and seeing his perpendicular shot bounce in off Pelletier's skate.

Chiupka banged in Kilburn's behind-the-net pass at 5:59 for the Cougar's second goal and it looked like the Cougars had a particle of hope when Brown received a double minor for roughing Kilburn at the 16-minute mark.

However, Canuck goalie Ray Mikulan turned on the charm again and kicked out three dangerous shots before Bruce Carmichael was penalized for cross-checking Mikulan, nullifying the manpower edge.

No one on the Victoria club was anxious to talk about the possibility of Vancouver winning in Seattle tonight.

And no wonder. The possibility is frightening.

Flyers Bump Regals; Stamps Kill Warriors

Edmonton Flyers cut a link off the chain between themselves and the Brandon Regals Tuesday night but Calgary Stampede just about snuffed the flickering candle burning in Winnipeg's window.

Flyers defeated Regals, 4-2 to climb within seven points of the Prairie division leaders. Calgary's victory over Winnipeg left them with a clear 13-point lead over Warriors in what used to be a fight for third place. A crowd of 6,476 saw Winnipeg lose.

A goal by Cummy Burton at 4:08 of the third period stood up for Flyers after Regals had twice taken the lead. With Brandon's goalie Lucien Dechene off in favor of an extra forward in the last minute, Bill McCrory fired into the open net to wrap up the victory.

Murray Costello got the other two Edmonton goals. Norm Johnson and Elliot Chorley scored for Brandon, Johnson after 26 seconds of the opening period. The score was 1-1 after the first and 2-2 after the second, with Brandon scoring first in each period.

A scramble early in the third period set up Burton's goal on a relay from Len Lund and McCrory. Dechene moved nearly 10 feet out of the goal then lost control of the puck and Burton slapped it into the open net.

With a minute left, the Brandon goalie was pulled for an extra forward, Lund, Burton and McCrory broke out of the Flyer end zone with two men back and McCrory skated to within 30 feet of the net before scoring with a hard shot. A Regal defenceman couldn't touch.

Sid Finney, Archie Scott and Frank Ashworth scored for Calgary while Hugh Barlow tallied the lone Warrior goal.

The Stamps led 2-0 at the end of the first period and 3-1 at the end of the second. The third was scoreless.

The victory increased Calgary's margin over Warriors in the Prairie division standing to 13 points. Warriors have two games in hand, but needed a win badly to stay in contention for the third and final playoff spot.

Calgary took control of the play from the opening whistle and held it throughout.

Siki Uses Head To Help Numa Score Mat Victory

Regi Siki used his head at Victoria Ballroom Monday night, but the action cost him the decision in one half of the main event of the weekly professional wrestling card.

Leo Numa was awarded the deciding fall when Siki was disqualified for head butting.

In the other featured bout, Cal Roberts was thrown against a ring post and failed to answer the bell for the third fall. The bout was ruled a draw since both Roberts and Buddy Knox were outside the ring when the post-bumping occurred.

Tony Morelli pinned Elmer Davis in the special bout, while Pat Sherman bested Mike Belton in the opening tussle.

Thursday night at 6, Victoria peewees will carry a three-goal lead into the final game of the series for the Island crown, scoring once in each period. In Victoria downed Nanaimo, 4-1, in the first game at Nanaimo.

LATE FOR TOURNEY

Maureen Hits Shuttle Snag

Maureen Bray, Victoria women's champion and the city's hope in the Canadian Open badminton championships at Kitchener, Ont., ran into trouble before her first match Tuesday night.

Miss Bray, runner-up in the B.C. singles final and the sixth-ranking woman player in Canada, was scheduled to play her first match at 11 this morning but as of 1 a.m. she was still in Vancouver.

The Victoria girl, delayed by interrupted airplane schedules to the east, was hoping that today's match would be postponed as she had no hope of reaching Toronto until noon.

The competition, open to foreign players for the first time, has an entry list of 121. Play will continue until Saturday afternoon when champions will be declared.

Wiry Dave MacTaggart of Vancouver was on hand to defend the men's singles title he won last year for the first time at Calgary. He is ranked this country's No. 1 player by the Canadian Badminton Association.

Montreal's Howard Moody, ranked ninth in the national listings, will seek to retain his junior crown. Last year's doubles champions Bill Purcell and Bev Wescott, both of Toronto, were again entered.

TWO STAY HOME

There will be new titleholders this year in both the women's singles division and the junior women's.

Mrs. Jean Miller of Montreal, who won the women's singles over fellow Montrealer Mrs. Kay Grant in 1956, gave birth to a daughter last month. Mrs. Jean Waring Follinsbee of Calgary, last year's junior champion, is expecting a child.

Canada's top women's doubles combination of Marj Shedd and Joan Hennessy, both Torontonians, were out to defend their laurels against the big threat of two top American twosomes.

The North American zone final of the Uber Cup team competition between the U.S. and Canada ended Tuesday night with the American team winning 7-0 in the two-day play. The six-member U.S. squad will meet India in the cup semifinal next month in England.

Wheat Exports Soar But So Do Unsold Stocks

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's wheat exports rose by 32,800,000 bushels in the first five months of the current crop year to a four-year high. Expanding world markets helped reduce Canada's record stocks, but there were indications she would wind up the crop year next July 31 with a peak surplus of more than 600,000,000 bushels. Though her exports had increased, her stocks available for export or carryover at the end of the five months Jan. 1 totalled 791,500,000 bushels, up 45,900,000 from last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Her exports in the August-December period compared with 94,100,000 in the similar five months of last year. They were the highest since the 168,100,000 shipped in 1952. At the start of the current crop year last Aug. 1, Canada had a near-record surplus of 540,000,000 bushels and produced a new crop of 537,800,000, giving her record total supplies of 1,078,400,000. Her domestic requirements for the year may take between 145,000,000 and 160,000,000 and her exports may total about 300,000,000. On that basis she would have a surplus at the year-end of about 600,000,000 or more.

Britain Gets $500 Million Loan in U.S.

LONDON (AP)—Britain has signed an agreement with the export-import bank in Washington establishing a $500,000,000 "loan of credit." Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft announced Tuesday.

Thorneycroft told the House of Commons:

"The agreement enables us to recoup at any time up to Feb. 28, 1958, a substantial part of our dollar expenditure on goods and services from the beginning of this year, and the gold and dollar reserves are thus effectively reinforced to this extent."

He said the government will decide if and when to draw on the credit, according to circumstances.

CAR SALES IN CANADA SET RECORD

General Motors Profits $847 Million, Down 29%

NEW YORK (AP)—General Motors Corp., biggest of the world's manufacturing giants, reports a net profit of $847,396,000 for 1956. This represents a drop of 29 per cent from 1955 when earnings soared to a record $1,189,477,000. But it still makes 1956 second-best year in the corporation's history.

The big auto company's 1956 profit was equal to $3.02 a share, compared to $4.30 a share in 1955.

Sales of cars, trucks, tractors, locomotives, refrigerators and other GM products last year totalled $10,796,433,000—a decline of 13 per cent from the record 1955 total of $12,443,277,000.

Sales from Canadian and overseas plants, however, ran counter to the downward trend in the U.S. climbing to a record high of 583,000 cars and trucks from 554,000 the previous year. In their annual report to GM's 667,000 stockholders, Harlow H. Curtis, president, and Albert Bradley, chairman, noted that 1956 was the first peacetime year in which the United States economy set a record high while auto sales were falling.

But the downturn in auto sales last year did not hit General Motors as hard as its major competitors. Ford reported a 17-per-cent dip in its 1956 sales and a 46-per-cent drop in earnings.

Australia Signs New Trade Pact

CANBERRA (Reuters)—A new trade agreement between Australia and the United Kingdom was signed here Tuesday.

The new agreement, which replaces the 1932 Ottawa agreement, maintains tariff preferences for British goods in Australia subject to reductions in the guaranteed margins. It also provides for the maintenance of tariff preferences and duty-free entry for Australian goods entering Britain.

An important feature of the agreement is the scope it gives Australia to negotiate improved export opportunities with other countries.

Victoria District Notes: A Time of the meetings is 7:45 p.m.
The Fairfield group concert held in the Church of Our Lord Hall on Humboldt Street was a real sellout. There wasn't even standing room.
The outstanding skits of the cubs, "St. George and the dragon" and "Wild-Neil of the Palances," were more than appreciated by the audience.
The special service held at the United Church, Oak Bay, on Sunday afternoon saw an attendance of over 250 Cub Scouts, Guides and Brownies. Groups represented were Windward Park, Willows, Oak Bay and St. Philips.
Nanaimo District: The Fifth Nanaimo troop received a new Union Flag at an impressive ceremony. The flag was presented by Mrs. George Bellamy, regent of the IODE, and received on behalf of the troop by Scoutmaster Bert Moss.

Will You Define the Words Nuclear Fission?
The expression nuclear fission or more tiny particles. Energy came with the Atomic Age. It is released and the fragments fly off at high speed. High atomic piles and the shattering atom bullets are used in this atomic bomb. Yet the word atom does not appear in the expression. Let's do some detective work on those words and see if the word atom is not hidden there.
Fission is the easier word to tackle first. It comes from an older word meaning to cleave or split. A fissure is a great crack in the rocks of the earth's crust. Fission, then, means splitting, cracking or cleaving. Nuclear is coined from an older word for nut or kernel. The nucleus of a comet is the bright core in the centre. Nuclear fission, then, is something to do with splitting cores.
The word nucleus was given a special meaning by the atomic scientists. It is their name for the central core, or heart, of the atom. This nucleus is a tightly bound bundle of electric particles. Around it are more loosely arranged shells of other electric particles. The nucleus is charged with positive electricity. The shells of electron particles are charged with negative electricity. The nucleus contains several types of electric particles. The chief ones are the positively charged protons and the electrically neutral neutrons.
The outer electrons often pop off their atoms like loose buttons. Normal atoms soon regain their quota of electrons. But the particles of the nucleus are much more firmly held together. We are not certain what energy binds them. It may be that each particle yields up a fragment of itself to form this welding force.
In any case, a great deal of energy is freed when a particle is torn from the nucleus. Much more energy is released when a nucleus is torn into two or more equal parts. This is what we call nuclear fission.
The term atom-splitting is usually used to describe the job done by machines like the cyclotron. Here the nucleus may be changed by chipping off one (BB to A) "THE GIRL CAN'T HELP IT" (Royal): The first rating stands for the magnificent view bordering upon the awesome.

The second rating, the "A," stands for the picture's star, Jayne Mansfield, and means "Don't Miss."

And don't.

Miss Mansfield can be compared only to one's first trip through the Rockies—a magnificent view bordering upon the awesome.

But, as the title says, "The Girl Can't Help It," and most bug-eyed males will be happy she can't.

FOR THE ERUDITE who may care about the plot: Tom Ewell, normally brilliant comedian who plays into insignificance against such abnormal competition, is given six weeks to make Miss Mansfield into a successful recording star so he can marry her. During the process, however, the girl who has more curves than the Fraser River discovers that there's no Ewell like an old Ewell.

Then there were the poignant, well-coordinated performances of Catherine McElmoye, Gloria Landers, Marion Pettey—an outstanding portrayal of unbearable nervous strain—David Allan, Donald Sherwood, Anthony Churchill and John Webb. Each, in its own way, was a gem.

In only one place—the prison scene—was there a suggestion that the actors had emptied themselves and had nothing in reserve for an important climax.

HARD ROLES, TOP PERFORMANCE

'Moving Sincerity' Marks Student Play

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

Victoria College Players could not well have chosen a more difficult play than Arthur Miller's bitter tragedy, "The Crucible." It is also inconceivable that any student group could have done it better than they did on the opening night at the college Ewing Building Tuesday.

There is, in point of fact, at least one aspect in which they probably excel over almost any group, amateur or professional—and that is in the matter of conviction. Whatever these youthful actors may have lacked in style they made up for in the most profound and moving sincerity.

A part of the impact of this production lies in the stuff of the play itself and in the master playwright hand that fashioned it into a highly effective piece of theatre. But without actors who understood, believed in and re-created the twisted motives, the emotional storms, the cunning and the heartbreak, there could be lack of conviction and even embarrassment.

It is, in particular, the story of John Proctor, whose one mis-step destroys both him and his wife. In general, it is a recounting of the Salem witch hunts of 1692; of a group of neurotic young girls and the havoc they wrought among the townsfolk.

Difficult to Single Out Best Performer

How to single out any individuals in a whole group of outstanding performances is a problem. Perhaps at the top must be placed John Gilliland, who little more than two weeks ago replaced John Sparks as Governor Danforth, due to the latter's illness.

In his hands, the hard, uncompromising bigot came fully to life attaining tremendous stature and conviction. There was not a faltering moment, not a weakness in this performance. It had authority and power that rang like iron on stone.

Then there was the remarkable performance of Margot Thomson as the young, charming and altogether venomous Abigail. There was no shade nor glance of meaning missing here. And the shaking hands, the sobbing voice were wonderful examples of projected experience.

John Ashworth's Proctor was an especially difficult assignment but he made this guilt-ridden, heartbroken man an unforgettable and emotionally exhausting experience for the audience.

Proctor's wife, Elizabeth, is a woman combining in strong measure the virtues of dignity, chastity and loyalty. With her, the denouement of the play, and Barbara Geddes was in every way equal to the demands made on her.

Then there were the poignant, well-coordinated performances of Catherine McElmoye, Gloria Landers, Marion Pettey—an outstanding portrayal of unbearable nervous strain—David Allan, Donald Sherwood, Anthony Churchill and John Webb. Each, in its own way, was a gem.

In only one place—the prison scene—was there a suggestion that the actors had emptied themselves and had nothing in reserve for an important climax.

Otherwise climaxes were all most effectively built. Tempo and voice tone were varied and consistently good.

The arena production, which in itself had something to add to the audience participation, had been well directed by Flora Nicholson. The costuming was highly effective and the few simple furniture pieces and props were quite perfect in establishing period and place.

Credit for much of this must go to Norm Jones as stage manager and technical director and an excellent crew. The play will be repeated nightly through to Saturday.

Frill-Finders Often Overlook Objectives of Modern Education

By PETE LOUDON

Whenever a new school is opened to public inspection several frill-finders turn up among the visitors.

Frill-finders often are graduates of the little red schoolhouses of yesterday who fondly recall the pot-bellied stove in the classroom, the readin'-writin'-and-'rithmetic curriculum.

Nothing makes a frill-finder more excited than to come upon a room filled with typewriters, wood-working benches and tools or to gaze down a wide shiny corridor where classes obviously never are taught.

A frill-finder is happiest when there is something to resent. A very fine line separates the frill-finder who resents what might be an unjustified expenditure and one who resents the varied facets demanded of an up-to-date education because these "frills" were not available to him.

Industrial arts rooms are often resented by both varieties of frill-finder.

What justification is there for teaching manual arts to boys who might eventually become clerks, salesmen, doctors, farmers or radio announcers?

HELPFUL

Modern educationists say every youngster should be given a chance to explore many fields before choosing his own. Woodworking, drafting, metalwork and electricity are trades.

But practice in these courses make mathematics and art come to life for a boy making an article of furniture, or a household utility.

Actually industrial arts is not intended as a training ground for industry in itself but help in teaching accuracy and care which must be instilled in the personality of anyone in almost any line of work.

The course is regarded as a tool of education available on the same basis as maths or physics. It is a compulsory subject in grades seven and eight and optional in grades 10, 11 and 12, under the B.C. government program.

POPULAR

Industrial arts is a popular course and often awakes an interest in school which extends into other subjects. It becomes invaluable to those going on to graduate in mechanical engineering and University of B.C. gives courses in

WHY—AND HOW

Is the school shift system injurious to students? Are there dangers in the use of temporary classrooms? Are industrial arts a necessity in modern education? Are school sites too expensive? Why are architects employed in school building? Are our schools too large? Are lunch-rooms necessary? Is a central sound system a frill?

Answers to these and other questions asked by property owners preparing to vote on the $5,000,000 school referendum are answered for Times readers in this series. They were compiled for the Times by the school board, Greater Victoria Teachers' Association and Parent-Teacher Association officials.

Industrial arts toward completion of a bachelor of education degree.

In the stress of modern living, many a doctor, lawyer or "high pressure" businessman retains his equilibrium through following a hobby which first attracted him in manual arts.

Rooms for teaching of these technical courses are included in all junior and senior high schools, except Oak Bay and Mount Douglas High, in Victoria school district.

Students at these schools have to be transported at present to other schools for the course, losing valuable time. The new school building plans will extend industrial facilities to these two schools.

The whole plant (classroom and tools, both power and hand) is paid for by the school district and the province on a 50-50 basis. All of these facilities are in constant use by day and most are also used in the evening by paying adult students.

The income derived reduces school maintenance costs to the taxpayer.

If the rooms for special subjects did not exist it would be necessary to replace them with regular classrooms, otherwise all students could not be accommodated.

The frill-finder gloating over corridors will find their width governed by the B.C. Fire Marshal as well as the education department, neither of whom regards safety as a "frill."

GILDING THE LILY—OR SPEAKING BLUNTLY

OTTAWA (CP)—George Hahn (S.C. New Westminster) asked Immigration Minister Pickersgill in the Commons Tuesday why the second cook at the Abbotsford, B.C., Hungarian refugee camp was fired.

Mr. Pickersgill replied the man was fired because of his "laziness, persistent and consistent drunkenness—and because there was a strong suspicion that he couldn't cook anyway."

Police Arrest Visa Applicants In Budapest

BUDAPEST (Reuters) — Police today arrested visitors to Western legations here and carried them off in covered trucks.

For the second day running, uniformed police and plainclothesmen surrounded the British, United States, French and Austrian legations. They stopped and questioned Hungarians leaving the buildings. Some of the Hungarians were driven away.

Despite the police measures, the flow of Hungarian callers at the British Legation was undiminished today. Usually more than 100 visit the legation daily, mainly in connection with visa applications.

Jaycees Open Drive For 100 New Members

A membership drive is being held by Victoria Jaycees in conjunction with the 30th anniversary of the Junior Chamber of Commerce to be observed on March 20.

The Junior Chamber, with a roll call of 106, needs at least 100 new members between the ages of 18 and 35 years to carry on its work in civic, educational, recreational and social fields, says Victor A. Fuggle, president.

Highlight of the membership drive will be a dinner to commemorate the founding of the Junior Chamber in January, 1927; the second to be established in Canada. The Winnipeg Jaycee was first.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Don Mackay, mayor of Calgary.

Jaycees plan to invite all its former presidents.

Some of the former Jaycee presidents up to the year 1940 include Archie C. Muir, who served as first president; W. T. Strath, former minister of education; Percy E. George, former mayor; Frank Timmis, Frank H. Partridge, T. F. Watkins, G. Conway Parrott and W. C. Mearns.

Here is a list of activities which the Chamber has organized, backed and is still sponsoring:

The Victoria Industrial and Agricultural Exhibition which attracts between 70,000 to 80,000 people a year.

A $300 scholarship for a high school student who writes the best essay on civic affairs.

A teenage roadshow designed to teach traffic safety.

Organized the Victoria Little League Baseball for boys 9 to 12 years of age.

In addition, the Jaycees have organized civic forums for discussion of civic and educational problems, sponsor a Christmas lighting contest and the "paint-up and clean-up campaign", as well as public speaking courses.

On the international and national level, it has arranged for the exchange of children's paintings with those of other countries.

"We need new members to assist us to carry on these activities," Mr. Fuggle said. "Our movement is non-partisan and non-sectarian and is open to anyone who seeks leadership training through active participation in community betterment projects."

'No Blank Cheque' For Schools—Golby

School expenditures are closely controlled by the department of education and the current bond market—"the $4,470,000 building by-law is no blank cheque"—school board chairman W. H. Golby said Tuesday.

In a luncheon address to Victoria Kiwanis, Mr. Golby explained the department must approve student population estimates to justify new construction. Plans were then rigidly examined to ensure every economy.

Even when the ratepayers approve a construction program money is borrowed only as it is required. Debentures are sold only at the best possible rates. If the market is poor, as at present, only the minimum needed is raised.

MONTE ROBERTS

People are forever going around putting up monuments to heroes of the past, present and future.

But has anyone, as yet, started a movement to put up a monument to the unsung hero who invented the dotted line?

To the best of my knowledge, the answer is a miserable "no."

Yet, without the dotted line, where would civilization be today?

Civilization would be without the dotted line, that's where civilization would be today.

Without the dotted line, the current members of civilization would be deprived of their breakfast bacon.

How could a package of bacon be opened without the instructions "cut along dotted line?"

The dotted line is all that separates modern civilization from modern starvation.

(At this stage I must admit the traditional dotted line, thus:

has tended to change to a different dotted line, thus: ————, which might better be called a dashed line, but the principle of the thing is there, just the same.)

There are many aspects of modern civilization which would collapse instantly without the dotted line.

Where else could one sign, except on the dotted line?

The name of those whose very livelihood depends on the dotted line is Legion. For instance, Mr. Legion, the insurance man, Mr. Legion, the appliance dealer, Mr. Legion, the automotive financier, Mr. Legion, the dog licence seller, Mr. Legion, the permit-to-burn-your-brush-pile-man.

One cannot even drive on the highways and by-ways of this nation without the assistance of the dotted line (so ————) although it is more often a dashed line (thus ————) or even an un-dashed or un-dotted line (viz. ————).

And the dotted line (usually embellished with a picture of a pair of scissors) is the only thing which keeps rescuing housewives in business.

The dotted line, in fact, is even more important than the "X" which marks the spot in newspaper pictures of places where things happened before the photographer got there.

It is high time we delved back into history, uncovered the identity of the man who invented the dotted line, and arrange to honor him with a suitable monument.

I am sure you will agree this is a h. l. of a good idea.

3-Cat Limit Won't Work, Council Told

A proposed city by-law amendment, which will limit to three the number of cats which may be kept in any city home, was opposed today by two more animal welfare groups.

The Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Canadian Council for Animals' Welfare wrote city council to uphold objections taken earlier by the Cats' Protection League.

The amendment comes before city council Thursday, backed by the council pound committee, the Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health and city parks administrator W. H. Warren.

WONT WORK

"By-laws passed to control cats would not work satisfactorily. Restrictions on the number should only apply to un-neutered cats," said SPCA official Mrs. William B. Williams.

She added: "It is rarely that anyone keeps more than three cats... the limit would seem unnecessary."

Judith Zach, president of the Canadian Council for Animals' Welfare, said: "The parks board (which doubles as pound committee) is overstepping its authority and the health board is attempting to prove that a situation is a health hazard where no hazard exists."

The cat controversy arose several months ago when 13 neighbors signed a petition of protest against a Duxess Street resident who was harboring an alleged 30 cats as a service to the Cats Protection League.

A second group of 23 residents sent a petition opposing the first. Both groups have sent delegations to committee and health board meetings and to council.

Use of a portion of Central Junior High School grounds as a site for a new main fire hall for Victoria was ruled out by a special meeting of the school board building and grounds committee Tuesday night.

School board chairman W. H. Golby said today he was sure the board would endorse the committee report.

OTHER SITES

"We can't give that up," said Mr. Golby. "There are only four acres there for use by almost 1,000 children. There are other good locations for the fire hall."

A special council committee headed by Ald. Austin I. Curtis met with the school board over a week ago and requested the western portion of Central Junior grounds where they are bounded by Yates and Ormond Streets.

WEATHER SPIRITS REPENT

Frogs All Croaking, Sure Sign of Spring

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The frogs are croaking—it's a sure sign of spring.

That's what the Indians are saying on the Songhees Indian reserve.

They said the small amphibians are now beginning to congregate in the ponds and lakes for the mating season and can be heard in most moist areas in and around Victoria.

"It's a good sign," said 82-year-old Jimmy Fraser, regarded by many people as a weather prophet and the last of the Songhees sages. "The weather spirits have repented and will send us good weather."

Jimmy still holds to the ancient native belief that the frog is the embodiment of wisdom.

It was from the frogs that the Shamans or Medicine men obtained their power from their favorite spirits, he said.

In other areas, Indians formerly believed that Thunderbird used frogs to guard his celestial kingdom because they could croak loudly and warn him of approaching strangers.

Another myth is that the amphibians served as messengers for Thunderbird and prevented birds and animals from disturbing him when he was resting.

The frog also is frequently carved on totem poles—a sign that he was highly regarded by Indians.

Naturalists agree that the croaking of frogs is a sign of spring—a sign that the mating season has begun.

During the winter months, they said, some species hibernate or find shelter from exceedingly low temperatures. The frog is a cold-blooded amphibian, who feels any extreme of temperature—hot or cold.

Another interesting aspect about a frog is that his croak in spring and late summer somewhat differs. Species also do not croak alike and a naturalist with a keen ear can identify the species by their sounds.

Man Stole To Feed His Family

2-Year Term for Theft Because of Past Record

A Victoria man who said he stole to provide for his hungry family was sentenced to two years less a day in Oakalla Prison when he appeared in city police court today.

Robert Dunbar, 818 Courtney, earlier pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and theft of $410 from a James Bay Safeway store last Sept. 20.

He smashed a plate glass window about 1.45 a.m., reached in and took the money from the top of a safe, where it had been left by mistake. Dunbar and his wife had noticed the cash when passing the store earlier, and he returned.

IMPULSE

He asked the court for leniency in view of the crime having been committed on impulse when his family was in need of money.

"Your wife told you not to do it, didn't she?" Magistrate H. C. Hall asked.

"Yes, your honor."

PEN NEXT

"In view of your record I must deal with this with regard to the circumstances..." the magistrate said.

He warned Dunbar any repetition would mean a penitentiary sentence, and gave the jail term in consideration of a probation report recommendation.

"You understand that, do you?" said Magistrate Hall.

"Yes, your honor."

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Last weekend Danish archaeologists are reported to have found and unearthed at Bahrain a Sumerian urn containing the skeleton of a man believed to have been put there about 5000 years ago. Who were the Sumerians? T.G.D.

A. They were a pre-Semitic race in the southern part of Mesopotamia. Their origin is unknown but their own mythology declares they held their lands from the moment of Creation. They left evidence of an advanced civilization dating from 3500 BC and probably 2,000 years earlier.

Ancient Sumerian annals said Eridu was the oldest city on the face of the earth, and mentioned that certain cities of Sumer survived the Flood.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

Plastic-Coated Flowers Lovely All Year 'Round

By PENNY SAVER

Spring's a-comin'! . . . But if you want to push the season a bit, you can arrange to have mid-summer and spring flowers on your dining room table right now. Not just ordinary flowers have I found, but plastic-coated ones that last, and last and last, and when they become dusty or dull, you just suds them, like dishes. Rinse thoroughly and let them dry. Gorgeous arrangements of daffodils, roses, poinsettias, iris . . . all blooms in all colors. They are in attractive bowls and vases, and are life size. You can choose small and delicate arrangement or an elaborate display for your most lavish dinner party.

In most homes, you'll find that ashtrays have a way of disappearing, and when you most need one, one can't be found. A set, placed handily on your coffee table, will be kept neatly in place by a matching china "boat" I've found. Inside the "boat" are four matching violet-patterned ashtrays. Of finest china, they cost $6.95. Matching lighters of violet-patterned china are available, too. A tall one is $1.69, and the squat ones, $1.59. That is a low price for such an attractive set. You'll love it, and appreciate the extra ashtrays.

Dainty, and meant especially for the woman who loves feminine jewelry, is the set of petitpoint earrings with matching pin. A pattern of blown roses outlined with a gold filigree setting makes these pieces really lovely. The earrings are yours for $3.95, and the brooch, $2.95.

For your charming round spike candle holders that hold round candles, I've something new. Here are beautifully formed red, yellow or tea roses . . . novel candles. Your table settings and flower arrangements will look just that much lovelier with the addition of these delicate blooms. They cost 95 cents each.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

An inopportune mother-in-law visit:
My husband and I had a dispute about inviting my mother-in-law to our house. I work five days a week in a factory, and my vacation was due on a Friday night. My mother-in-law came from another city the previous Sunday and stayed with her daughter. She didn't phone us once during the week.

I would like to know if it was my duty to call and invite her to our house, or was it my husband's duty? Inasmuch as I was leaving at 6 o'clock that Friday for my vacation, my husband felt I was at fault for not inviting her. His mother felt slighted and told my husband I shouldn't have left for the vacation because she was in town. I think that she could have come to see me or call me on the telephone.

Louise Davis answers:
I'm afraid you are on the wrong track. You should have taken the initiative and, furthermore, you should have prevented an awkward situation. Even though your husband's mother didn't notify you, she did notify the family and you are one of the family. Have you no hospitality for a visitor, especially your husband's mother? If I were you, I'd move heaven and earth to get that chip off the shoulder, and by doing so, your mother-in-law's shoulder chip would disappear too. Why quibble as to who should call first? It's about even; your husband's because of the relationship, and yours because as his wife you would be the one to extend an invitation to come to your house for

Exercise to Win a Flat Stomach

Sagging stomach muscles not only spoil your figure, they're unnecessary. Don't rely on a girdle to do what you yourself can accomplish by simple exercise. If you want firm, young stomach muscles and therefore a smooth, flat tummy, make a habit of touching your toes 20 times each morning. That's all there is to it. At first, your leg muscles will hurt and you'll ache generally but that's good. It means you're getting results. Keep your legs straight and don't cheat by bending your knees slightly. If you can't even reach your toes at first, keep trying. Eventually you'll make the grade. And later, when the going is easy and you're bored with the whole idea, don't stop. Unless, of course, you want an "outstanding" tummy.

If you want a smooth, young-looking neck into the middle years, don't go around looking for wrinkles. One sure way to find them is to dig your neck down into your collar when you're reading. Hold your book (in a good light) where you can see it easily without slumping. Hold it well up so your head is up, too. When you walk, look about you. Look at scenery and

Ceylon Woman Admires Aggressive Canadians

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Attractive Milini de Sylva from Ceylon finds it difficult to realize that Canadian society accepts working wives, but she likes the greater equality she finds here.

Mrs. de Sylva who accompanied her husband, Sydney, to Guelph where he is a student at the Ontario Agricultural College, says that in her native land, women with the exception of peasant farm workers—seldom take jobs.

"The dignity of labor is not yet fully realized in our country. There is much more stratification in our society," she said.

"A few career women are found in Ceylon—doctors, lawyers and teachers, but the general situation is that woman's place is in the home looking after her children. That's the way it has always been."

Mrs. de Sylva is so impressed, however, by the aggressiveness of Canadian women that she has decided to enrol next fall in the one-year diploma course at Macdonald Institute. Her husband is a third-year student in agricultural economics.

WINTER IS TOUGH
The de Sylvas find it hard to adjust themselves to the Canadian winter.

"It is new to us," Mrs. de Sylva said. "We never have snow in Ceylon and the temperature never drops below 65 degrees."

Mr. de Sylva came to Canada under the Colombo Plan technical co-operative scheme. He is a graduate of the School of Agriculture, Peradeniya, Ceylon, and was employed for a time by the government of Ceylon at the dry zone research station, in the North-Central Province.

The de Sylvas admit, too, they are frankly impressed by the living standards of the average Canadian, which they find comparable to that of a government official in their country.

A bread that's really a cake—and such delicious cake! Served hot or cold, gingerbread is a dessert that everyone loves. It claims a place in every modern menu.

The Family's Favorite Dessert: Gingerbread and Whipped Cream

Gingerbread, a fancy kind of bread flavored with ginger and molasses, is a favorite that traces its popularity back through generations. And this bread—or cake, as we think of it today—is one of the simplest to make.

This recipe, made with bran flakes to give it a moist, tender texture, is wonderfully flavorful and can be mixed together in minutes. For a special touch, serve with a generous spoonful of whipped cream centred with a slice of fresh orange.

BRAN FLAKES GINGERBREAD

One and one-quarter cups sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1/2 cup shortening, 1/2 cup brown sugar, 1/2 cup molasses, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1 cup whole bran flakes.

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and spices. Pour boiling water over shortening, stirring until shortening is melted. Stir in sugar, molasses, egg and bran flakes. Add sifted dry ingredients; beat well. Pour into greased 8x8-inch pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 35 minutes. Yield: 8 pieces 4x2 inches.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Many women have lovely slim figures until their first child is born. Then they may allow themselves to gain from 10 to 25 pounds of fat each pregnancy.

The wise young woman begins counting calories as soon as she has weaned her baby, and she snaps those stretched abdominal muscles back into place with exercise as soon as her doctor says that it is safe for her to do so.

Her more short-sighted sister may allow the pounds to linger on and the muscles to remain lax until another child is on the way. Probably she gains even more during the second pregnancy, on top of what she gained the first time, and her muscles will be in worse condition.

BEST PLAN
Of course the best plan is not to gain the extra pounds of fat. It is true that a pregnant woman needs more food because she must nourish her child as well as herself, but that does not mean that she should eat so much that she herself accumulates fatty deposits.

All of the hazards of pregnancy are increased by overweight. While having a baby is safer today than crossing a busy intersection, we should nevertheless give ourselves all of the "breaks." This is one of them. Do not gain weight past that allowed for your pregnancy.

Another is to see a physician as soon as you suspect that you are to have a child. Prenatal care has been an extremely important factor in the tremendous cut in maternal mortality. Even though you feel wonderfully well, put yourself in the hands of a doctor immediately and follow his directions.

He probably will want you to take a daily walk unless there is some special reason for not doing so.

Select your physician carefully, not just for his bedside manner but for his training and experience and skill also. Once you do this you need have no fear. With available scientific know-how and modern anesthetics, having a child should be sheer joy.

If you would like to have my leaflet, "Care During Pregnancy," which gives you much information as to girdles and diet and so forth, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 21. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Men in Canada Delightful, Say English Girls

MONTREAL (CP)—Two British girls say they have found that Canadian men differ principally from Englishmen in matters of haircuts, dress, and the fact they spend more money on a "date."

Beryl Watts and Roy Belle, now on a world tour which will take them to South America and Australia before returning to Britain, have been in Montreal nine months. They've found it delightful, especially the men.

"They take things like taxis for granted," explained 21-year-old Beryl in an interview. "In England a man thinks nothing of going dutch on a date—and taking the bus."

Beryl and Roy, who didn't meet until their kindred sense of adventure brought them to Montreal, quickly found jobs and living quarters here. But they say they learned Canadian customs the hard way.

"I was used to traffic on the left," said Roy, "until I was knocked down by a car travelling on the right."

Beryl climbed on a Montreal bus and walked to the back, "as I would in England," waiting for the busman to come and collect her fare.

A shout from the driver taught her that in Canada you pay as you enter.

Their next port of call is Toronto, which the girls hope to reach in their newly-bought, 1936 model car.

Serve fresh broccoli often while in season. For a dress-up touch, toss chopped broccoli—cooked until barely tender—with slivered toasted almonds and lemon butter.

Woman to Write History Of Canadian Mounties

OTTAWA (CP) — An American woman is in the capital gathering material for a pictorial history of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Mrs. Sydney B. Self of New Canaan, Conn., an expert horse-woman as well as author, plans to assemble a 500-picture volume recording the RCMP's development since it was organized as the North West Mounted Police 84 years ago.

Interwoven with the pictures will be a 60,000-word text written by Mrs. Self. Better known as Margaret Cabell Self—author of 16 books, mainly on horses and including Irish Adventure—she is assisted by Mrs. Verl Sturgis Crew of Wilton, Conn. Both operate riding schools in their respective communities.

The 200-page pictorial history—first ever compiled on the RCMP—is to be published within the year as part of a series which has included such subjects as American presidents, ships and sports.

Mrs. Self says she became interested in the RCMP while in Ottawa judging a pony show last summer.

"I hadn't known much about the Mounted Police until then," she said in an interview. "You see, we just think of them as a musical ride and not as a police force, but it is so much more than that."

AT THE WHEEL with Hans Gruber

Let us take a look today at the American luxury cars as a group, and see just what they offer in return for a rather low bidding price. We can deal with them in two ways: (1) comparing their advantages, of any, over the smaller, lower-priced cars, and (2) comparing them simply with one another without prejudice to cars of another price range.

Aside from such abstractions as prestige and appearance, our Lincolns, Cadillacs, Imperials do not, in all truth, offer greater transportation value as compared with Ford, Chevrolet and Plymouth.

They have, in fact, two clear-cut disadvantages as compared with their lower-priced relatives. One is their enormous bulk, and the other their much greater weight. And neither is a desirable feature from the point of view of ease of handling and road-holding.

They offer more lavish and better-quality interior appointments; in some cases, but not in all, more passenger space and luggage accommodation.

QUIET, SMOOTH

They have larger and more powerful engines, but not measurably better performance, since their power-to-weight ratio is little if at all, better than in the smaller cars. They do run much more quietly, and somewhat more smoothly. They ride much more softly, which is not the same thing as saying that they ride better. They do, a little, at slow city speeds and moderate open-road speeds, but beyond legal speeds I would as soon have the tauter springing of a Chevrolet.

They are, as a group, more carefully assembled and finished, and, therefore, probably less prone to a variety of minor things-going-wrong, but there is no statistical proof that they are basically more durable than cheaper cars. None of them compare in structural sturdiness to the unit-construction Rambler.

Actually, the transportation needs, pure and simple, of the vast majority of people can be admirably filled from the Chevrolet-Plymouth-Studebaker-Ford-Rambler type of car. What then, you may ask, is the reason for the existence of cars which cost many times more?

LUXURIOUS

They are meant to provide the most luxurious means of personal transport possible, and there is no doubt whatever that this function they do fulfill admirably.

Compared to one another, they are by no means all alike, and no one of them has a monopoly on all the most desirable features combined. They are all magnificent motor cars all around, and all outstanding in one or another respect.

The Imperial offers the outstanding ride among American cars, and may have no rival in that department in any car in the world except the French Citroen D-19. The Imperial has also the largest and most powerful production-car engine in the world, and possibly the most durable potentially.

MOST SILENT

The Cadillac remains, now as before, the most silent of American cars, its only foreign rival in this respect being the British Rolls-Royce and Bentley. Also, the 4-door model "62" and the 4-door Cadillac "Sedan de Ville" have the advantage of being the most compact of the large cars in outside dimensions, while retaining all the excess interior roominess expected of this type of car.

I am not overjoyed at Cadillac's short-cut to extracting more power from the engine, they increased the size of the inlet valves, but diminished the diameter of the exhaust valves. In theory, this would adversely affect the life-expectancy of the exhaust valves. But I hasten to add the chief engineer at Cadillac knows more about this sort of thing than I do, nor would it be reasonable of me to suggest that Cadillac deliberately jeopardized their long-standing reputation for making the most durable and trouble-free of cars.

OUTSTANDING

The Lincoln is outstanding in roadability. In size, roominess and interior luxury it concedes nothing to its competitors, but does surpass them in safe handling and tenacious road-holding at those fantastic speeds of which all these cars are capable. It is a superb car. These are the acknowledged American luxury cars—the most expensive ones.

THREE ALTERNATES

At a lower price, it might well pay the luxury-car buyer to have a good close look at three other cars: The new Nash Ambassador V-8 and the Hudson Hornet V-8, which advertise themselves, not without justification, as the outstanding long-distance cars by virtue of their enormous interior space and a host of really worthwhile, unique amenities. And they alone in their class offer unit-construction. The third car is the Studebaker President, which was discussed here at some length two weeks ago.

Nanaimo Magistrate Undergoes Surgery

NANAIMO — Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts is recovering in Nanaimo General Hospital from an emergency operation for acute appendicitis.

He will be in hospital about a week.

SHE "URNED" HER MONEY

The vast vaults in our warehouse amaze our visitors. Originally constructed for barristers and solicitors: We have six of these cells, each lined with brick. Heavy steel doors about a foot thick. We use 'em for storage... pillows... bedspreads... Lamps... odd chests... & even bunk beds. And to many a client... we do exalt. "This bed's so valuable... it's kept in a vault."

"Gracious," said a lady, "how long & wide, I could drive my Volkswagen right inside." And red paint was spilled on the floor & one side. As if, years ago... a homicide. And another lady... looked in a kind way. Said she used to work here, as a secretary. "I had my desk... let's see... over here."

She sort of shuddered, as if full of fear. "I'll tell you a secret," she softly said. "When I worked here, I was filled with dread. And for one whole week (& it wasn't my fault!) I just couldn't go... inside that vault. 'Cause my barrister boss (he'd made my heart churn), had a dead client's ashes... in there in an urn. Finally I put an end to the gruesome affair. I can't get you those papers 'CAUSE EGBERT'S IN THERE."

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Gruber
(MOTHER OF 5)

Memo to mothers-to-be: The rest you get in the hospital is a good preparation for the busy time ahead. But the smart mother plays it smart... doesn't overdo it those first few days at home. Points to remember: any help you can get from doting grandmothers and others is all to the good. Time-outs for coffee breaks or cat naps are "refresher courses" that pay good dividends in cheerfulness.

In less time than you would believe, your sweet, pink and precious one will be ready for cereal. When your doctor gives you the go-ahead on this important food, you'll find the 5 Gerber Cereals convenient and helpful. The Gerber Cereal packages have handy pouring spouts. Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal... all five are pre-cooked and ready to serve with formula or milk. The flavors are bland but distinctive—the texture creamy-smooth. Most important, they're enriched to give your baby the extra nutritional benefits of iron, calcium and B-vitamins.

Comforting thoughts. If your new baby suffers from a spot of air colic now and then, these "tried 'n true" tips are often helpful: (1) Keep baby extra quiet before and after feedings. (2) Bubble baby more frequently during feeding. (3) Add sweet mother murmurings to your regular cuddling.

Sweet scent-i-ment. After washing baby's rubber sheet, sprinkle liberally with baby powder. It's good for the rubber, surrounds baby with the sweetest scent this side of a baby crib.

Delightful at lunch for your honey-bunch—a spoonful or three of Gerber Strained Bananas. Only fully ripe fruit (easily digested) goes into Gerber Bananas for babies. Ripening is controlled for uniformity. Special processing preserves the delicious true-banana flavor and color. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

NEW QUARTERS FOR NANAIMO PAPER

$200,000 Newspaper Plant Opened by Premier Bennett

Premier W. A. C. Bennett today officially opened the new quarters of the Nanaimo Daily Free Press before a crowd of 250 guests, including Island and mainland publishers, civic leaders and businessmen.

The Nanaimo paper, launched in 1874 and second oldest on the Pacific coast of North America from the standpoint of continuous publication, was bought three years ago by the Thomson interests, and a year ago a program of remodelling was started.

It is estimated the project cost close to $200,000, including rebuilding new quarters and installing new machinery.

W. J. Lupton, publisher, was chairman of the ceremony, which started at 2 p.m., and James B. Curran, editor, thanked the premier. Ald. John Cook represented Mayor Peter Maffeo, who is out of town.

Trade and Industry Minister Earle Westwood of Nanaimo was on hand for the event.

Kenneth Thomson, Toronto, president of the Thomson newspaper organization, also was present.

At the conclusion of the ceremony guests were taken on a tour of the new plant, then entertained at a reception in the Malaspina Hotel.

A tiny male spermatozoon wriggles its way to the female egg. Later, as egg and sperm blend into a completed cell, the egg splits into 2 cells, then 4, 8, 16—and finally into the trillions which compose a new-born baby.

Cheap Money Plan Asked By Nanaimo

NANAIMO—City council will petition the federal and provincial government for municipal development.

Ald. George Bryce, who made the suggestion at a council meeting Monday, said every council in the country is trying to hold the line on general expenses, and every municipality on Vancouver Island needs cheaper money.

NEW EXIT

Council approved purchase of one acre of ground beside Exhibition Park from Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., to be used as an exit from the park.

It also learned its share of Vancouver Island Regional Library costs for the year will be $13,827. Waterworks expenditures will total $41,089.

Seven high school students, led by history teacher F. Foster, attended the meeting and sat beside Acting Mayor John Cook and six aldermen as their respective counterparts.

Bruce Farquharson was "mayor" and "aldermen" were Jim Bateman, Ann Louise Thompson, Don Clark, Tom Derbyshire, Barry Leigh and Bob Malpass.

Tenders Called On Ganges Hospital

Bids To Be Opened on March 22 For 25-Bed, Fireproof Institution

Tenders have been called for construction of a new Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital at Ganges, Salt Spring Island, Victoria architects Whittaker and Wagg said today.

"If we find a bid that is reasonable and acceptable, and within the scope of the by-law, construction can start immediately following opening of tenders March 22," said H. Whittaker, partner in the firm.

OUTSIDE AID

Residents of the Gulf Islands passed a by-law last July 28 authorizing the Gulf Islands Hospital Improvement District to borrow $98,825 for hospital construction. The provincial government will provide $141,657, and the federal government $32,000, making a total of $272,482 available for the project.

ACROSS THE PROVINCE

UBC President Urges More Hungarian Aid

VANCOUVER—The president of the University of British Columbia Tuesday urged Canadians to continue helping the Hungarians.

Dr. Norman MacKenzie made this appeal when he addressed the 38th annual council meeting of the British Columbia Division, Canadian Red Cross Society.

The meeting was officially opened by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, who praised the society for its "wonderful work".

Dr. MacKenzie said that unless "we of the west are prepared to look after people like the Hungarians it will be too bad for you and me."

"The Hungarians are a major issue in this cold war that threatens to become a hot war. My guess is that we will lose that war if we don't help these people."

He said some people had shown "emphatic anger" over the amount of Canadian monies that was spent on the Hungarians when it could have been used for "our own old age pensioners".

"I am not suggesting that $40 a month is enough for the pensioners, but all of us have to provide for ourselves. The idea of that from the cradle to the grave somebody should take care of us is not good," he said.

DOCTORS BLAME ADDICTS

VANCOUVER — Police believe that drug addicts unable to get supplies of narcotics from underworld sources are responsible for a series of raids on Vancouver doctors' offices Monday night. Offices of seven doctors in a building on Burrard Street were ransacked, but the intruders found no drugs.

AIR RESCUE DEVICE

VANCOUVER—A group of press and aviation representatives Tuesday watched a demonstration of SARAH, an electronic device designed to assist in air rescue operations. The demonstration was supervised by Sqdn. Ldr. George Sheahan, chief of the RCAF's Search and Rescue Squadron at Sea Island Air Base near here.

SLIDES BLOCK ROADS

NELSON—Rain trickled through heavy, sodden snow above the Nelson-Salmo Highway Tuesday, loosing three slides which blocked the road one mile south of Apex. The highways department announced that the Rossland-Cascade Highway was closed.

FLOODING AT KAMLOOPS

KAMLOOPS — A Chinook blew into Kamloops at noon Tuesday, pushing temperatures to 54 above. Three hours later reports of flooding were pouring into the city works department.

Dowell Presses Gov't For Point Ellice Aid

Victoria acting-mayor Arthur Dowell said Tuesday he will write to Premier Bennett again asking a provincial grant of $108,000 toward the cost of the Point Ellice Bridge.

The city is counting on the provincial support following promises made in campaign speeches here last year by Public Works Minister W. N. Chant. Mr. Chant said the B.C. government would match any federal assistance dollar-for-dollar.

Ald. Donald Smith, M.L.A., made the same statements to council on several occasions.

When the federal government announced it would pay $108,218 toward the bridge, Mayor Percy Scurrell immediately applied to the premier for a similar sum.

"The premier acknowledged the letter, but that was all," says acting-mayor Dowell.

Mr. Chant was non-committal when asked if the original city request would be met.

Total of contracts let for the bridge construction is $629,644. Despite an increase in cost due to extra repairs required for old piers, city officials hope contributions from the two senior governments will put final cost to the city just over $500,000. The money is already at hand, collected from sale of tax-reverted lands.

WASHINGTON WOMEN NOW 3 YEARS YOUNGER

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)—The House of Representatives has officially authorized women to trim three years from their age. For insurance purposes, that is.

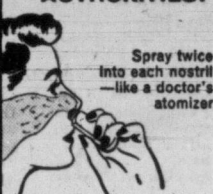

The approval came on a measure which would permit women to be considered three years younger than their actual age for the purpose of determining premiums on life insurance policies.

Backers of the measure said the proposal is based on the fact that women have a longer life expectancy than men.

ANYBODY FOR BADMINTON?

Softly, softly... it's the gentle look this spring, according to London fashion designers. An upside down shuttlecock-inspired designer of creation in top picture. A market garden was inspiration for hat in bottom photo. It's a straw pillbox, sprouting mushrooms and toadstools. The hat was made by Princess Margaret's milliner.—(London Daily Mirror photos)

FLOODS, SLIDES ON MAINLAND

Balmy Spring Days Will Continue Here

The weatherman today forecast "several days" of fine, spring-like weather for much of B.C.—and the frogs are croaking in Victoria, a sure sign of spring, according to Indian sages. (See Page 21).

But the warmup brought a continuing threat of slides and floods on the mainland. Two chief highways in the Interior were closed and a number of secondary roads blocked.

At Kamloops many basements were flooded to a depth of two feet Tuesday as temperatures soared to 54, second highest in the province.

Crews sandbagged parts of the Trans-Canada Highway at the east end of Kamloops to hold back the water. The weatherman gave his most optimistic forecast of the winter for Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

"There are no storms to menace our fairly pleasant weather for the next several days," he declared.

He explained further: "High pressures have built up over the coast and much of B.C. and we seem to be established in a fairly stable pattern. Storm tracks go to the north and to the south of us."

Cold air has been pushed back beyond the Peace River and Edmonton, he added.

Rain trickling through heavy-sodden snow in the Kootenays loosed three slides which blocked the Nelson-Salmo highway Tuesday one mile south of Apex.

A portion of the Balfour-Kaslo road was impassable due to slides.

City Star Wins In Canadian Shuttle Meet
Mel Chapman advanced into the second round as the Canadian Open badminton championships opened at Kitchener, Ont., today, but three other Victoria juniors were ousted in first-round open singles matches.

The Canadian Press reports Chapman turned back Ross Sample, of Toronto, 15-9, 15-12, while Victoria champion Harvey Hurd, Warren Bell and Jane Lee were dropping matches to senior opponents.

The four, together with Roger Lindal, will compete in the Canadian junior tourney and entered the open meet for experience.

Maureen Bray, sixth-ranked Canadian women's singles player, is Victoria's lone senior entrant.

Hospital Wing Seen Only Hope For Joint Centennial Plan

Airliner, 21 Aboard 'In Distress'

Nose Wheel Stuck Over Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pilot of a Capital Airlines Constellation, circling Milwaukee for hours today with a jammed nose gear, radioed that he is heading for Detroit's Willow Run Airport and will "execute emergency procedures" to lower the wheel en route.

The pilot radioed shortly after taking off from General Mitchell field here he was "in distress."

Capt. Richard Pease, the ship commander, reported the plane's nosewheel stuck and he was unable either to extend it again or retract it.

His four-engine aircraft was carrying gasoline for nine hours of flying time.

CONVICTS PARDONED FOR AIRLINER RESCUE

NEW YORK (AP)—Three city prison inmates were released Tuesday as a reward for their rescue work in the Feb. 1 plane crash on Rikers Island which took 20 lives and injured many others.

They were the first to receive such consideration among the 85 prisoners who assisted in the rescue. The city penitentiary is located on the island and the prisoners were sent to the scene following the crash of the Northeast Airlines plane.

All were serving sentences up to three years.

U.S. Gaza Proposal Before UN Today

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

UNITED NATIONS—The United States put finishing touches today to a resolution aimed at getting Israel's forces out of Egypt without using sanctions by placing the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area under United Nations control.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge hoped to put the measure, which is believed much the same as Canada's Lester Pearson proposed Tuesday, before the general assembly this afternoon.

He and his delegation spent this morning lining up additional sponsors in order to present the resolution with as broad a backing as possible.

Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, in the thick of the negotiations, postponed until Thursday his departure for India.

Chief points of the resolution had been given to Israel and Egypt and the United States, with its co-sponsors, awaited reaction from Israeli foreign minister Mrs. Golda Meir and Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi, both of whom are here.

Pearson's four-point plan ran into immediate criticism from the Arab and Soviet blocs. But it was learned that the American delegation here welcomed it as the way to break the Egyptian-Israeli deadlock, and that the U.S. resolution would follow the main outlines of the Canadian submission.

In Washington where Secretary of State Dulles again was meeting with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, the United States urged Israel to make "a voluntary withdrawal" from disputed Middle East areas to avoid United Nations sanctions or other pressure.

Policeman Killed, Suspect Dies In Montreal Duel
MONTREAL (CP)—A police constable and a suspected burglar died today as a result of a pre-dawn gun duel in the quiet residential district of Notre Dame de Grace in Montreal's west end.

Radio patrolman Charles House, 31, a 10-year veteran on the police force, died in Montreal General Hospital several hours after the shooting from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

Anglican, RC Clergy As MPs Voted Down
LONDON (AP)—The House of Commons voted Tuesday night 160 to 38 against a proposal to let Church of England and Roman Catholic clergymen be eligible for election to Parliament.

Anglican and Catholic clergy are barred from the Commons under an 1801 act. Other clergy are eligible. Labor member John Parker said the act is unfair and should be changed.

GAGLARDI CITES ROAD NEEDS
1,000 More Cars Monthly in B.C.
Aggressive planning is needed to meet British Columbia's future traffic needs, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi told the legislature Tuesday.

New vehicles are being registered at close to 1,000 a month, he said, and new highways will be needed to accommodate them.

Surveys were completed last year for 498 miles of new highways, including 50 miles on Vancouver Island, Mr. Gagliardi said.

In the first eight months of the present fiscal year the provincial highways department moved 12,500,000 cubic yards of dirt and rock, compared to 6,800,000 cubic yards during the whole of the previous year.

Mr. Gagliardi said the regrouping of his department into districts under regional highway engineers had "greatly improved administration in the field."

$2 Million, 130-Carat Diamond Makes Debut; Buyer Can Name It
NEW YORK (UP)—A newly cut, 130-carat diamond of superlative quality makes its debut today as one of the world's greatest treasures.

The pear-shaped, ice blue gem, valued at approximately $2,000,000, will be exhibited for sale for the first time in the plush showrooms of Harry Winston Inc. It was cut from the sixth largest high-grade diamond ever found and ranks with some of the most famous crown jewels.

Winston, its owner, believes the diamond would be worn most beautifully as a simple pendant at the throat of a young woman. The buyer, he adds, will have the privilege of naming the diamond.

Winston said several persons "have shown interest" in the stone, which was cut from a 426-carat rough diamond and got its final polishing—or "brilliantizing"—only Tuesday. But so far, nothing is definite, and Winston is content to wait.

His customers range from the Duchess of Windsor to Montgomery Ward.

Winston's chief cutter and polisher, Dutch-born Bernard de Haan, spent one year cutting the 130-carat diamond and two smaller diamonds from the original South African stone which Winston bought for an undisclosed price in London in 1955. There are 58 facets on the face of the big diamond and 86 on the girdle.

JAMES B. ELKINS

Death Threat To Witness In Union Probe

(See also page 7)

WASHINGTON (UP)—Death threats against a star witness and his brother were reported today at a Senate rackets committee investigation of the Teamsters' Union.

James B. Elkins, a racketeer who said he had conspired with the Teamsters' Union to help gamblers get entrenched in Portland, Ore., told the committee he was personally threatened with death by Frank Brewster, teamsters' vice-president and chairman of the union's western conference.

And committee chairman John L. McClellan (Democrat, Arkansas) said the FBI had disclosed James' older brother Carl, a businessman in Phoenix, Ariz., received a death threat by telephone Tuesday.

The witness himself told the committee, "I know they are going to do something to me."

He told the committee that Brewster once got red in the face and told him:

"If you embarrass my boys you'll find yourself wading across Lake Washington (in Seattle) with a pair of concrete boots."

Elkins identified Brewster's "two boys" as William M. Langley, district attorney of Multnomah County in which Portland is situated, and Clyde C. Crosby, international organizer for the teamsters in Oregon.

Elkins had testified to a teamsters-gamblers district attorney tieup in Portland.

NIXON, DUCHESS OF KENT AMONG HONORED GUESTS
Gold Coast's Ghana Plans Gala To Mark Independence March 5

ACCRA, Gold Coast (UP)—Gold Coast authorities brought in 150 Cadillacs and 500 tribal dancers today to kick off two weeks of celebrations marking the emergence of the British Commonwealth's first independent Negro nation.

This British colony officially becomes independent March 5 under the name of Ghana, the title of an ancient kingdom which flourished in the same area thousands of years ago.

U.S. Vice-President Richard M. Nixon and the Duchess of Kent, representing Queen Elizabeth, and Mines Minister Prudham, special envoy for Canada, were scheduled to be among the dignitaries attending.

Mr. Prudham will be accompanied by his wife and daughter. He leaves Thursday.

The 500 dancers arrived from the northern territories of Ashantiland. They will perform tribal dances before an international audience representing nearly every country in the world.

The Cadillacs are an added attraction in a land where tribal chieftains signify their wealth not by the richness of their leopard skin robes but by the shininess of their new cars.

Premier Kwame Nkrumah's government brought them in to help move the visitors around Accra's crowded streets.

Electricians and workmen swarmed through the capital today, stringing colored lights across streets for a radius of two miles.

Thousands of natives flocked into the city to watch the preparations, resulting in western-style traffic jams.

The traditional African ceremony of welcome will include a traditional libation—pouring out of wine. But gin will be substituted for wine. It will be poured from a coconut husk, as is the custom in such ceremonies here.

The churchmen have expressed dismay that the duchess should have to watch such goings on. But local sources said the government would not be truly African unless it was performed with gin.

PRAYER FOR TODAY
Our Father, to whom a thousand years is but as yesterday when it is past, show us how to use well the days thou hast given us. As we are privileged to live longer than some, help us to live better. Show us how to use our days so that we shall find joy in them; through Christ. Amen.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gagliardi's On Jettison Mikes!

When Highways Minister Philip Gagliardi addresses the legislature, such new-fangled inventions as desk microphones and electric amplifiers are superfluous.

The booming tenor voice rolls around the corridors with such vehemence that the casual visitor might be excused for thinking he had strayed into a state opera house by mistake.

Not even the great Caruso himself could put more passion into his voice than does the Reverend Mr. Gagliardi when he says such things as: "I have been bottling myself up all through this session, and I am just about ready to EXPLODE!"

Mr. Gagliardi proceeded to explode so effectively that not a soul slept in the public galleries and a group of visitors in the rotunda, normally beyond sound of the legislature, listened in awe-stricken silence.

One of them, a slim middle-aged man, looked rather pale as he asked me: "What's going on in there?"

Mr. Gagliardi boomed his way through 20 or 25 pages of typewritten manuscript and, on the inspiration of the moment, added a number of fiery interpolations.

And then, his voice rising in a frenzy of indignation, Mr. Gagliardi cried: "Let them throw in our path every obstruction they can conceive. And let them watch as we leap over them."

At almost any moment you expected Mr. Gagliardi to ring out some such Churchillian phrase as "We will never surrender," for his voice, at least, has a Churchillian splendor.

Having more or less disposed of the local opposition parties, Mr. Gagliardi trained his long-range artillery on the Tight Money Brigade in Ottawa.

Now the CCF and the Liberals, aided by Mr. Tight Money of Ottawa, were throwing road blocks in the way.

He thundered at the CCF opposition, calling them "Confounded, Confused and Frustrated" and accusing them of trying to obstruct the government's dynamic construction programs—particularly its construction of highways.

Only a few years ago, he said, British Columbia was just a "sleeping giant." It had no conception of its own strength until the Social Credit government freed it from the "bondage" of the old-line parties.

Once, when he was proclaiming the government's road-building achievements, CCF leader Robert Strachan broke in with:

"Don't be so modest. Why should I be modest?" thundered Mr. Gagliardi. "Why shouldn't I do a bit of shouting and jumping around when I have something to shout about?"

Premier Bennett obviously enjoys his extrovert highways minister, for he laughed and applauded continuously throughout Mr. Gagliardi's one-and-a-half hour speech and more than once looked up at the galleries as if to say:

"This is the kind of enthusiasm Social Credit produces."

After the emotional and dramatic impact of Mr. Gagliardi, the House settled down to a more or less routine afternoon.

... CENTENNIAL

ality has to bow out and the whole idea of a unified project will collapse.

Latest estimate of the hospital wing is $1,800,000.

About $455,000 of the total would be paid by the Greater Victoria municipalities. If the centennial "pot" of $150,000 were applied this would leave only $305,000 to be contributed from general revenue of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

A "guesstimate," based on earlier cost-sharing proposals (which favored Victoria because of past heavy commitments to the hospital), would split costs as follows: Victoria $110,000, Saanich $123,000, Esquimalt $41,000 and Oak Bay $41,000.

30 YEARS TO PAY

The municipalities would have the years to spread their contributions as the project would take that long to complete.

The laying of the cornerstone of the centennial wing would be assured of pomp and ceremony. The municipalities have agreed to lump the 40-cent grant they receive from the B.C. government with no strings. It is for celebration purposes—and if the four centres get together, it will be due cause for a hands-across-the-borders shindig.

Only one of the many other centennial promotions is likely to share in the grant money—the old Craigflower School.

Before coming into the centennial pool Saanich council promised to spend $5,000 to help renovate the old building. On Thursday night the inter-municipal centennial group resolved to spend $5,000 of its celebration fund for that purpose, to honor the Saanich promise.

New Cassiar Road Hailed in North

Provincial government officials said today they still have received no official word of Ottawa's offer to share the cost of the Cassiar-Stewart road in northwestern B.C.

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair made the announcement in Ottawa Tuesday, saying his government was prepared to pay half the estimated cost of $12,000,000.

Mr. Sinclair gave the length of the road, which starts at the Yukon boundary and runs southward parallel to the Alaska Panhandle to Stewart, as 250 miles.

However some 130 miles have been completed since work was started in 1947 on the mining access road.

Work was halted last year when the road had reached Dease Lake, following a stormy legislative committee hearing into charges of laxity and patronage in construction of the road.

The announcement that work will proceed again was hailed by civic and business leaders in northern B.C.

GREAT BOON

Bruce Brown, vice-president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and former Liberal MLA who took an active role in the committee investigation, said the road would help tremendously in opening up the northwest portion of B.C.

"It could open up an empire that will eventually dwarf the Wenner-Gren development plan," he said.

In Vancouver, Tom Elliott, manager of the B.C.-Yukon Chamber of Mines, welcomed the announcement of the federal-provincial deal on the Stewart-Cassiar road as "wonderful news."

The road will pass through the heart of "very rich mineral-bearing country" and will help solve the problem of shipping asbestos from Cassiar to tidewater, he said.

WAITING FOR IT

"It's exactly what the industry has been waiting for," Mr. Elliott said. "It will become one of the most important roads in the north country."

It was not known whether the agreement, which calls for a road with a four-inch gravel top capable of being surfaced at a later date, would mean that the 130 miles of present construction will have to be rebuilt.

It was charged before the committee last year that much

Doug Peden OUTDOOR REPORT

There is no item of outdoor equipment that can give more pleasure to a sportsman than a well-trained hunting dog. By the same token, there is no single source of more grief and exasperation, nothing that can ruin a day so completely, than a dog that is not properly trained and obedient.

Some years ago I knew a fellow who always hunted alone and never guessed at the reason for his solitary habits until the subject came up during a conversation one day.

"Well," he explained, "I live in an apartment and can't keep a dog, but my friends used to ask me out for a shoot over their dogs. For a while I went along, only to have the day spoiled by an unruly dog. Blowing whistles, yelling, swearing and beating dogs isn't my idea of a pleasant day."

"Now I just wander around by myself. I don't get many birds, but at least I keep my peace of mind."

I never did learn whether or not he eventually got around to shooting over a good dog, but he certainly had a point. Watching and listening to the scenes created by unruly dogs on opening day of a pheasant season is enough to convince anyone that a disobedient pooch is better left at home for guard duty than inflicted on hunting companions.

It is a problem to acquire and develop a good shooting dog, regardless of breed. Most of them are spoiled before they reach their hunting age. It is natural to make a fuss over a small pup and you want him to learn that you are his friend and the solution to all his problems.

However, there comes time for him to start learning about his real mission in life. By that time, his confidence in you should be firmly established.

Pampering Breaks Down Discipline

From that point, take it easy on the petting and pampering. Too much will break down discipline. But he should be praised when he retrieves a bird or performs a lesson properly. You can't teach him to hunt. If he comes from a proven strain, he'll do that instinctively. All you can do is teach him to obey.

Short lessons, 10 to 15 minutes a day, are advised until he reaches his advanced training. Never give a command you are not in a position to enforce. Praise him when he performs well; correct him, as firmly as necessary, when he is wilfully disobedient. Once he is convinced you are the boss and that you mean business, your battle is half won.

Opinion on the best age to start a pup on his training varies. Some say three months, some suggest six or more. Almost all successful trainers agree that training on retrieving and hand signals shouldn't be undertaken until the dog is at least nine months of age.

I happen to be one of those who believes too early a start can spoil a pup's natural eagerness to hunt. As a result, I have a sizeable training problem to overcome before next September. I also have a dog that would sooner hunt than do anything else in the world.

My black Labrador was five months old when he had his first taste of grouse hunting. For a while he faithfully obeyed the few simple lessons he had learned, but his enthusiasm gradually overcame his discipline and he was eventually ranging too far from the gun.

Effort Will Be Rewarded Many Times

The choice then was either to keep him under tight control and take a chance on dulling his eagerness, or let him develop his hunting instinct and take a chance that I could break him of his bad habits before next season. I chose the latter course.

There is no doubt that he has what it takes. If I do my part, he'll be an excellent shooting dog by next September. If I don't, he'll be a misfit and I'll be due for a nervous breakdown after each bird-hunting trip.

Several like myself have young dogs not yet thoroughly trained and there are many more who will acquire a hunting dog before the next shooting season. Nobody likes to take time out for training while hunting. So what we do in the next few months will decide whether our dogs become valuable hunting companions or unruly nuisances through no fault of their own.

There are several good amateur dog handlers around Victoria who are willing to help a novice get the right start on training and there are a number of good books on the subject. All the effort spent on proper training will be rewarded many times. Just a few days of shooting over a good dog are more than worth all the trouble.

A hunter who has not owned a good bird dog has missed a good deal in this life.

The regular black brant season ends Thursday night and there has been no word from the Game Commission if an extension of the season will be granted. Hunting results in this area have certainly not been good and there is still a chance that a few extra days will be allowed, but don't count on it.

WINS DISPUTED DECISION

Vince Newest Title Threat

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Welterweight contender Vince Martinez wasn't a very popular victor over the rejuvenated Kid Gavilan, but he was thrust forward today as a $100,000-guaranteed challenger for either the welterweight or middleweight titles by elated New Jersey promoters.

TIME OUT!

"Perky little breeze off the ocean today!"

And he was also considered for a return bout with either of the ex-welter champions, Kid Gavilan or Tony Demarco.

Cuban Gavilan, 31, was yelling for another fight with Martinez of Paterson, N.J., and he deserved the rematch because of his magnificent performance in Tuesday night's wham-bam brawl before a near-capacity 8,527 in the big Newark Armory.

Despite a rainy night they drew $35,920—Newark's largest fight gate in nine years.

And the money for this non-television bout was not mispent; for Gavilan—fighting well throughout—staged an electrifying finish that had 27-year-old Martinez lurching about the ring on rubber legs at times in the ninth and 10th rounds. And the rugged "Kid" had survived punches in the earlier rounds that would have felled a steer.

Martinez, scaling 149½ pounds to Gavilan's 148½ and favored at 3-1, won the referee's decision. There are no judges in New Jersey. On a rounds basis, referee Joey Harrison of Garfield, N.J., gave the decision to Vince, 6-3-1. It was booed for five minutes by the fans.

A United Press poll of 17 sports writers at the ringside favored Gavilan, 11-4-2. The United Press had the fight scored even on rounds, but favored Martinez because of his consistently harder punching throughout.

Lockman Returns To Giants Via Trade

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals today traded first baseman-outfielder Whitey Lockman to New York Giants in exchange for relief pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm. It was a straight player deal with no cash involved.

Lockman thus returns to the Giants. He was traded to St. Louis last June 14 in the deal that brought Red Schoendienst to New York and shortstop Al Dark to St. Louis.

MIAMI BEACH—Orlando Zulueta, 139, Havana, outpointed Ray Portilla, 139½, Houston, Tex. (10).

JUST ONE OF MANY

Jim Piersall Bosox Holdout

By TIM MORIARTY
United Press Sports Writer

Jimmy Piersall, the Boston Red Sox' all-out outfielder, was classified officially as a holdout along with five teammates today as the American League's perennial pennant contenders opened spring training at Sarasota, Fla.

In addition to the fleet, cocky Piersall, infielders Ted Lepico and Billy Klaus, outfielder Gene Stephens, catcher Sammy White and pitcher Rudy Minarcin also were unsigned when the Sox went through their initial drill under manager Mike Higgins.

General manager Joe Cronin, detained in Miami yesterday by a pension meeting, hoped to sign some of the Boston "stragglers" today. He is especially anxious to line up Piersall, who enjoyed his greatest season last year, batting .293 in 155 games and rapping home 87 runs.

Although disappointed over the absence of Piersall, Higgins still had "the big guy" around to lead the Bosox through their first limbering-up exercises. Ted Williams said he was feeling "fit as a fiddle" for the start of his 15th season "and rarin' to go."

Meanwhile, the Milwaukee Braves also had six players unsigned as they approached the official opening of their spring drills Friday. Veteran right-hander Lew Burdette conferred with general manager John Quinn yesterday at Bradenton, Fla., but did not agree to terms.

Outfielder Bill Bruton and shortstop Johnny Logan still are at their Milwaukee homes and giving every indication of holding out past the Friday

Just One More For Longden's 5,000 Target

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Johnny Longden's world record of lifetime winners stood at 4,999 today, and the 5,000th appeared as hard to get as his first one 30 years ago.

Longden was entered on four horses at Santa Anita today and his admirers were hoping for "just one more."

The 47-year-old Johnny had six mounts Tuesday. He won No. 4,999 in the first race, then finished second twice, third twice and fourth in the final race of the day.

Pitchers Maury McDermott and Tom Morgan, recently acquired from the New York Yankees, are among five Kansas City players who have not yet taken pen in hand. The other potential A's holdouts are catcher Hal Smith, pitcher Lou Kretlow and third baseman Hee Lopez.

Don Larsen finally discussed his salary differences with assistant general manager Lee MacPhail of the Yankees yesterday at St. Petersburg, Fla., but came away unsigned and unhappy. MacPhail, admitting "we're not too far apart," scheduled another meeting with the perfect game pitcher for today.

11 Players Fined For Hockey Riot

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP)—President Frank Buckland of the Ontario Hockey Association said Tuesday 11 junior hockey players from St. Catharines Teepees and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors were fined a total of $240 for their free-for-all game in Toronto Sunday. The game erupted in a wholesale brawl 32 seconds before the end of the contest which St. Catharines won 4-1.

St. Catharines won 4-1.

Plastic-Coated Flowers Lovely All Year 'Round

By PENNY SAVER

Spring's a-comin'! . . . But if you want to push the season a bit, you can arrange to have mid-summer and spring flowers on your dining room table right now. Not just ordinary flowers have I found, but plastic-coated ones that last, and last and last, and when they become dusty or dull, you just suds them, like dishes. Rinse thoroughly and let them dry. Gorgeous arrangements of daffodils, roses, poinsettias, iris . . . all blooms in all colors. They are in attractive bowls and vases, and are life size. You can choose small and delicate arrangement or an elaborate display for your most lavish dinner party.

In most homes, you'll find that ashtrays have a way of disappearing, and when you need one, one can't be found. A set, placed, handily gree setting makes these pieces on your coffee table, will be really lovely. The earrings are kept neatly in place by a match. Yours for $3.95, and the brooch, ing china "boat" I've found. In $2.95.

A tall one is $1.69, and the squat

Gwendolyn Eekman, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eekman, Oliphant Street, gives approval to the birthday cake made for her great-grandmother, Mrs. Marion Holdcroft (inset), 100 years old today. The cake, made by a friend, Mrs. W. E. Sims has pale yellow icing. Delicate lattice-work and clusters of yellow roses with gold leaves decorate the cake. Centring the top is a gold plaque with the inscription, "Congratulations, Mother, on your 100th Birthday."

Very Special Cake Marks Great-Grandma's Birthday

Letters from the Queen, the Prime Minister of Canada, the Governor-General and B.C.'s lieutenant-governor were joined with congratulations from her family and close friends today when Mrs. Marion Holdcroft celebrated her 100th birthday.

Mrs. Holdcroft, who came to Victoria in 1893, is a member of the toy-making Holdcroft family, well-known in Victoria in early years, who still have interest in a city store.

For the occasion, a luncheon was held at the Linden Ave. home of Mrs. Holdcroft, where guests were her children, Mr. Gordon Holdcroft; Jack Holdcroft of West Vancouver, and Mrs. L. J. Eekman of Victoria. Also at the luncheon were Mrs. Holdcroft and Mrs. Robert Southern.

A few close friends and members of the immediate family were invited to a tea this afternoon, and this evening grandchildren and great-grandchildren will visit.

Mrs. Holdcroft's grandchildren include Miss Marjorie Eekman of Wellington; Mr. Walter Eekman, Victoria; Mrs. Palmer Adams, France; Miss Mary Holdcroft and Miss Joy Holdcroft, Japan. Great-grandchildren of Gordon and Gwendolyn Eekman of Victoria.

Exercise to Win a Flat Stomach

Sagging stomach muscles not only spoil your figure, they're unnecessary. Don't rely on a girdle to do what you yourself can accomplish by simple exercise. If you want firm, young stomach muscles and therefore a smooth, flat tummy, make a habit of touching your toes 20 times each morning. That's all there is to it. At first, your leg muscles will hurt and you'll ache generally but that's good. It means you're getting results. Keep your legs straight and don't cheat by bending your knees slightly. If you can't even reach your toes at first, keep trying. Eventually you'll make the grade. And later, when the going is easy and you're bored with the whole idea, don't stop. Unless, of course, you want an "outstanding" tummy.

If you want a smooth, young-looking neck into the middle years, don't go around looking for wrinkles. One sure way to find them is to dig your neck down into your collar when you're reading. Hold your book (in a good light) where you can see it easily without slumping. Hold it well up so your head is up, too. When you walk, look about you. Look at scenery and

You can avoid disfiguring walls when hanging pictures if you first make an "X" with cellulose tape on the precise spot where you will be driving the nail. Since it will be hidden from sight, leave it there until you decide to change your picture arrangement. You will find that the transparent tape will also keep the plaster intact when you withdraw the nail.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

An inopportune mother-in-law visit:

My husband and I had a dispute about inviting my mother-in-law to our house. I work five days a week in a factory, and my vacation was due on a Friday night. My mother-in-law came from another city the previous Sunday and stayed with her daughter. She didn't phone us once during the week.

I would like to know if it was my duty to call and invite her to our house, or was it my husband's duty? Inasmuch as I was leaving at 6 o'clock that Friday for my vacation, my husband felt I was at fault for not inviting her. His mother felt slighted and told my husband I shouldn't have left for the vacation because she was in town. I think that she could have come to see me or call me on the telephone.

Louise Davis answers:

I'm afraid you are on the wrong track. You should have taken the initiative and, furthermore, you should have prevented an awkward situation. Even though your husband's mother didn't notify you, she did notify the family and you are one of the family. Have you no hospitality for a visitor, especially your husband's mother? If I were you, I'd move heaven and earth to get that chip off the shoulder, and by doing so, your mother-in-law's shoulder chip would disappear too. Why quibble as to who should call first? It's about even; your husband's because of the relationship, and yours because as his wife you would be the one to extend an invitation to come to your house for

Nose Wheel Stuck
Over Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The pilot of a Capital Airlines Constellation, circling Milwaukee for hours today with a jammed nose gear, radioed that he is heading for Detroit's Willow Run Airport and will "execute emergency procedures" to lower the wheel en route.

The pilot radioed shortly after taking off from General Mitchell field here he was "in distress."

Capt. Richard Pease, the ship commander, reported the plane's nosewheel stuck and he was unable either to extend it again or retract it.

His four-engine aircraft was carrying gasoline for nine hours of flying time.

FLOODS, SLIDES ON MAINLAND

Balmy Spring Days
Will Continue Here

The weatherman today forecast "several days" of fine, spring-like weather for much of B.C.—and the frogs are croaking in Victoria, a sure sign of spring, according to Indian sages. (See Page 21).

But the warmup brought a continuing threat of slides and floods on the mainland. Two chief highways in the Interior were closed and a number of secondary roads blocked.

At Kamloops many basements were flooded to a depth of two feet Tuesday as temperatures soared to 54, second highest in the province.

The weatherman gave his most optimistic forecast of the winter for Vancouver Island and the lower mainland.

"There are no storms to menace our fairly pleasant weather for the next several days," he declared.

He explained further:

"High pressures have built up over the coast and much of B.C. and we seem to be established in a fairly stable pattern. Storm tracks go to the north and to the south of us."

Cold air has been pushed back beyond the Peace River and Edmonton, he added.

Seattle Teamsters
Boss Involved

WASHINGTON (AP)—James B. Elkins, a Portland gambler, testified today the Teamsters' Union helped defeat Mayor Fred L. Peterson, Portland, Ore., after the mayor failed to fire a police chief who was blocking expanded vice operations.

(See also page 7)
WASHINGTON (UP)—Death threats against a star witness and his brother were reported today at a Senate rackets committee investigation of the Teamsters' Union.

James B. Elkins, a racketeer who said he had conspired with the Teamsters' Union to help gamblers get entrenched in Portland, Ore., told the committee he was personally threatened with death by Frank Brewster, teamsters' vice-president and chairman of the union's western conference.

And committee chairman John L. McClellan (Democrat, Arkansas) said the FBI had disclosed James' older brother Carl, a businessman in Phoenix, Ariz., received a death threat by telephone Tuesday.

The witness himself told the committee, "I know they are going to do something to me." He told the committee that Brewster once got red in the face and told him:

"If you embarrass my boys you'll find yourself wading across Lake Washington (in Seattle) with a pair of concrete boots."

Elkins identified Brewster's "two boys" as William M. Langley, district attorney of Multnomah County in which Portland is situated, and Clyde C. Crosby, international organizer for the teamsters in Oregon.

Elkins had testified to a teamsters-gamblers-district attorney tieup in Portland.

Elkins described dealings with teamsters officials and with William Langley, Portland district attorney. He said he helped swing teamsters' union political support to Langley in 1954 in return for what he called a "flat-footed" pledge from Langley to protect Elkins' gambling joints.

Elkins, 56, said he himself is under some two dozen state and federal indictments, some of them brought by Langley as district attorney. Langley himself has been indicted in the Portland scandals.

Other witnesses testified that Local 690 of the teamsters union in Spokane loaned more than $50,000 to gamblers and saloon keepers in Seattle and Spokane.

The testimony brought the comment from Senator Irving M. Ives (Republican, N.Y.), a committee member, that the Portland situation "looks pretty bad—it will be an eye-opener to many people."

The names of Dave Beck, international president of the teamsters, and Frank W. Brewster, head of the 11-state Western Teamsters Conference, figured in the testimony.

Beck now is in Europe on his third trip abroad in as many months. He has promised to be back to testify in late March.

Seattle Chief Recalls Talks

SEATTLE (AP)—Police Chief H. J. Lawrence said today James B. Elkins, a Seattle night club operator, approached him several times in 1952 about Elkins' setting up activities here.

Elkins told the Senate rackets-investigation committee at Washington, Tuesday, he had talked to "the chief" in Seattle about such a matter. He did not identify "the chief."

"Elkins made at least six or seven attempts during the first months after I became chief of police to persuade me to let him operate in Seattle," Lawrence said.

"He saw me in person and called me on the telephone. He was always after me about it. It was the time when people like that were trying to move into Seattle from all over to operate. We rejected all of them successfully."

Lawrence said Elkins also wanted permission given Thomas E. Maloney, a Seattle and Spokane figure, to open a gambling place or two here.

"Maloney opened up a place one night and we shut him down the next," the police chief added.

Policeman Killed, Suspect Dies In Montreal Duel

MONTREAL (CP)—A police constable and a suspected burglar died today as a result of a pre-dawn gun duel in the quiet residential district of Notre Dame de Grace in Montreal's west end.

Radio patrolman Charles House, 31, a 10-year veteran on the police force, died in Montreal General Hospital several hours after the shooting from a bullet wound in the abdomen.

CONVICTS PARDONED FOR AIRLINER RESCUE

NEW YORK (AP)—Three city prison inmates were released Tuesday as a reward for their rescue work in the Feb. 1 plane crash on Rikers Island which took 20 lives and injured many others.

They were the first to receive such consideration among the 85 prisoners who assisted in the rescue. The city penitentiary is located on the island and the prisoners were sent to the scene following the crash of the Northeast Airlines plane.

All were serving sentences up to three years.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Gaglardi's On Jettison Mikes!

When Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi addresses the legislature, such new-fangled inventions as desk microphones and electric amplifiers are superfluous.

The booming tenor voice rolls around the corridors with such vehemence that the casual visitor might be excused for thinking he had strayed into a state opera house by mistake.

Not even the great Caruso himself could put more passion into his voice than does the Reverend Mr. Gaglardi when he says such things as: "I have been bottling myself up all through this session and I am just about ready to EXPLODE!"

Mr. Gaglardi proceeded to explode so effectively that not a soul slept in the public galleries and a group of visitors in the rotunda, normally beyond sound of the legislature, listened in awe-stricken silence.

One of them, a slim middle-aged man, looked rather pale as he asked me: "What's going on in there?"

Mr. Gaglardi boomed his way through 20 or 25 pages of typewritten manuscript and, on the inspiration of the moment, added a number of fiery interpolations.

Waterworks expenditures will total $41,089.

Seven high school students, led by history teacher F. Foster, attended the meeting and sat beside Acting Mayor John Cook and six aldermen as their respective counterparts.

Bruce Farquharson was "mayor" and "aldermen" were Jim Bateman, Ann Louise Thompson, Don Clark, Tom Derbyshire, Barry Leigh and Bob Malpass.

Cheap Money Plan Asked By Nanaimo

NANAIMO—City council will petition the federal and provincial governments for municipal development.

Ald. George Bryce, who made the suggestion at a council meeting Monday, said every council in the country is trying to hold the line on general expenses, and every municipality on Vancouver Island needs cheaper money.

Council approved purchase of one acre of ground beside Exhibition Park from Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., to be used as an exit from the park.

It also learned its share of Vancouver Island Regional Library costs for the year will be $13,827.

Waterworks expenditures will total $41,089.

New Cassiar Road Hailed in North

Provincial government officials said today they still have received no official word of Ottawa's offer to share the cost of the Cassiar-Stewart road in northwestern B.C.

Federal Fisheries Minister James Sinclair made the announcement in Ottawa Tuesday, saying his government was prepared to pay half the estimated cost of $12,000,000.

Mr. Sinclair gave the length of the road, which starts at the Yukon boundary and runs southward parallel to the Alaska Panhandle to Stewart, as 250 miles.

However, some 130 miles have been completed since work was started in 1947 on the mining access road.

Work was halted last year when the road had reached Dease Lake, following a stormy legislative committee hearing into charges of laxity and patronage in construction of the road.

The announcement that work will proceed again was hailed by civic and business leaders in northern B.C.

Great Boon

Bruce Brown, vice-president of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and former Liberal MLA who took an active role in the committee investigation, said the road would help tremendously in opening up the northwest portion of B.C.

"It could open up an empire that will eventually dwarf the Wenner-Gren development plan," he said.

In Vancouver, Tom Elliott, manager of the B.C. Yukon Chamber of Mines, welcomed the announcement of the federal-provincial deal on the Stewart-Cassiar road as "wonderful news."

The road will pass through the heart of "very rich mineral-bearing country" and will help solve the problem of shipping asbestos from Cassiar to tidewater, he said.

WAITING FOR IT

"It's exactly what the industry has been waiting for," Mr. Elliott said. "It will become one of the most important roads in the north country."

It was not known whether the agreement, which calls for a road with a four-inch gravel top capable of being surfaced at a later date, would mean that the 130 miles of present construction will have to be rebuilt.

It was charged before the committee last year that much

Poker Game Strategy Slows Progress

He declared the federal government had "broken" hundreds of small businesses with its credit restrictions and he called this part of a "poker-game strategy" to hold back progress.

Mr. Gaglardi was quick to add that he no longer played poker himself. But in the days long past—before he knew better—he had played poker and done all sorts of other things that most men do.

Once, when he was proclaiming the government's road-building achievements, CCF leader Robert Strachan broke in with:

"Don't be so modest." "Why should I be modest?" thundered Mr. Gaglardi. "Why shouldn't I do a bit of shouting and jumping around when I have something to shout about?"

Premier Bennett obviously enjoys his extrovert highways minister, for he laughed and applauded continuously throughout Mr. Gaglardi's one-and-a-half hour speech and more than once looked up at the galleries as if to say:

"This is the kind of enthusiasm Social Credit produces."

After the emotional and dramatic impact of Mr. Gaglardi, the House settled down to a more or less routine afternoon.

But Gordon Dawling (CCF-Burnaby) created a slight diversion by holding up a red and rather mangy-looking potato before the legislature.

"Look at it," he said. "That's supposed to be a new potato. But it's not. It's an old potato dyed red, and it was imported from California. I suggest the government should look into this racket of coloring old potatoes to look like new."

U.S. Gaza Proposal Before UN Today

(From UP and CP Dispatches)

UNITED NATIONS—The United States put finishing touches today to a resolution aimed at getting Israel's forces out of Egypt without using sanctions by placing the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba area under United Nations control.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge hoped to put the measure, which is believed much the same as Canada's Lester Pearson proposed Tuesday, before the general assembly this afternoon.

He and his delegation spent this morning lining up additional sponsors in order to present the resolution with as broad a backing as possible. Indian Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, in the thick of the negotiations, postponed until Thursday his departure for India.

Chief points of the resolution had been given to Israel and Egypt and the United States, with its co-sponsors, awaited reaction from Israeli foreign minister Mrs. Golda Meir and Egyptian foreign minister Mahmoud Fawzi, both of whom are here.

Pearson's four-point plan ran into immediate criticism from the Arab and Soviet blocs. But it was learned that the American delegation here welcomed it as the way to break the Egyptian-Israeli deadlock, and that the U.S. resolution would follow the main outlines of the Canadian submission.

In Washington where Secretary of State Dulles again was meeting with Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban, the United States urged Israel to make "a voluntary withdrawal" from the disputed Middle East areas to avoid United Nations sanctions or other pressure.

GAGLARDI CITES ROAD NEEDS

1,000 More Cars Monthly in B.C.

Aggressive planning is needed to meet British Columbia's future traffic needs, Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi told the legislature Tuesday.

New vehicles are being registered at close to 1,000 a month, he said, and new highways will be needed to accommodate them.

Surveys were completed last year for 498 miles of new highways, including 50 miles on Vancouver Island, Mr.

Gagliardi said.

In the present fiscal year the provincial highways department moved 12,500,000 cubic yards of dirt and rock, compared to 6,800,000 cubic yards during the whole of the previous year.

Mr. Gagliardi said the regrouping of his department into districts under regional highway engineers had "greatly improved administration in the field."

He would be approved, but he agreed it appeared to fit the verbal blueprint.)

Greater Victoria Centennial Committee meets again March 7 and screening of dozens of other suggestions will begin.

There will be argument from chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell for an addition to Memorial Arena. And if Ald. E. D. McEwen weren't going to be in the east he would likely support the multiple museum plan submitted by architects Clack Clayton Pickstone.

But the meeting, if it is prolonged, may turn out to be a waste of time, for as one committee member has stated, "The hospital wing is a foregone conclusion," and only one municipality has to bow out and the whole idea of a unified project will collapse.

Latest estimate of the hospital wing is $1,800,000.

About $455,000 of the total would be paid by the Greater Victoria municipalities. If the centennial "pot" of $150,000 were applied this would leave only $305,000 to be contributed from general revenue of Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

32 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, FEB. 27, 1957

A "guesstimate," based on earlier cost-sharing proposals (which favored Victoria because of past heavy commitments to the hospital), would split costs as follows: Victoria $110,000, Saanich $123,000, Esquimalt $41,000 and Oak Bay $41,000.

The municipalities would have three years to spread their contributions as the project would take that long to complete.

The laying of the cornerstone of the centennial wing would be assured of pomp and ceremony. The municipalities have agreed to lump the 40-cent grant they receive from the B.C. government with no strings. It is for celebration purposes—and if the four centres get together, it will be due cause for a hands-across-the-borders shindig.

Only one of the many other centennial promotions is likely to share in the grant money—the old Craigflower School.

Before coming into the centennial pool Saanich council promised to spend $5,000 to help renovate the old building.

On Thursday night the inter-municipal centennial group resolved to spend $5,000 of its celebration fund for that purpose, to honor the Saanich promise.

B.C. Heart Specialist Drops Dead in East

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. George F. Strong, 60, of Vancouver, president of the National Heart Foundation of Canada, collapsed and died at Windsor Station here Tuesday night a few minutes after arriving from Toronto.

He was a former president of the Canadian Medical Association and of the American College of Physicians, and Surgeons.

Dr. Strong began practice in Vancouver in 1924. He was the moving spirit behind establishment of a central diagnostic and radio therapy clinic for cancer which resulted in the formation of the British Columbia Cancer Foundation.

The foundation operates the Cancer Institute in Vancouver, the Victoria Cancer Clinic and 10 travelling clinics in the province.

For years Dr. Strong was interested and active in the rehabilitation of paraplegics and other handicapped persons. His interest led to the formation of the Western Society for Rehabilitation. It built the first rehabilitation centre.

Dr. Strong is survived by his widow and a daughter, Barbara, both of Vancouver. A son, Jack, was killed serving with the RCAF.

UBC President Urges More Hungarian Aid

VANCOUVER—The president of the University of British Columbia Tuesday urged Canadians to continue helping the Hungarians. Dr. Norman MacKenzie made this appeal when he addressed the 38th annual council meeting of the British Columbia Division, Canadian Red Cross Society.

The meeting was officially opened by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, who praised the society for its "wonderful work."

Dr. MacKenzie said that unless "we of the west are prepared to look after people like the Hungarians it will be too bad for you and me."

"The Hungarians are a major issue in this cold war that threatens to become a hot war. My guess is that we will lose that war if we don't help these people."

He said some people had shown "emphatic anger" over the amount of Canadian monies that was spent on the Hungarians when it could have been used for "our own old age pensioners."

"I am not suggesting that $40 a month is enough for the pensioners, but all of us have to provide for ourselves. The idea of that from the cradle to the grave somebody should take care of us is not good," he said.

How Life Begins

A tiny male spermatozoon wriggles its way to the female egg. Later, as egg and sperm blend into a completed cell, the egg splits into 2 cells, then 4, 8, 16—and finally into the trillions which compose a new-born baby.
